LOCK THREE EMPLOYEES AND PATRON IN VAULT; ENTIRE STATE LOOK FOR BANDITS

Sheriff Claus Theorin, deputies, police officers of Brainerd and the Cuyuna Range were conducting tonight an extensive search throughout the district for the four bandits who this afternoon at 4 o'clock pulled the daring holdup of the First National Bank of Ironton and escaped in a waiting car with about $33,000 in gold, currency and cash. The money stolen was the monthly payroll for the Inland Steel Co. and the Mahanomen Mine, shipped to the bank yesterday. The stolen money was fully covered by burglary and holdup insurance.

The holdup was carefully planned and executed in professional style. Within fifteen minutes after entering the bank the highwaymen had escaped with the money.

In spite of the thorough search the bandits made for all the money they could get their hands on they failed to find a packet containing $4,000 in one corner of the vault, a shipment for the Trommald bank.

Leaving one man behind in a waiting car, the three bandits entered the bank at 4 o'clock. Walking up to the cages in a casual manner the three whipped out guns and covered A. H. Proctor, cashier, T. S. Nyhus, assistant cashier, Ernest Olson. They forced the employees to fall prone on the floor and while one of the men covered the victims the other two searched the place for the location of the money. John O. Lindahl, a patron, superintendent of the Crosby-Ironton high school, who was in the bank at the time was forced to do the same as the others. The vault door being open the bandits cleaned it of all currency, gold and silver they could find. They took about $30,000 in from the vault, including $500 in gold. They then scooped up $5,000 in currency and silver from the cash drawers.

Harshly ordering the four victims lying on the floor to get up, the bandits ordered the four to back up into the vault, at the point of guns. With this done the bandits locked the vault door and made their getaway.

Attracted by shouts and pounding on the floor above, G. H. Storms, shoemaker with a shop below the bank, notified Stanley Jorgenson, a former employee of the bank who was not working at the time on account of sickness, of the disturbance. Jorgenson was able to release the employees and patron from the vault. The vault has a ventilating system connecting with the basement.

The holdup was carefully planned and well timed. The burglar alarm was put out of order and the bandits had undoubtedly known of the shipment of money for the payroll as it had come earlier than was expected in order to pay the miners before Armistice Day.

A. H. Proctor an official of the bank in his version of the story says it occurred about 4 p. m. when one customer was outside and three cashiers back of the counter. One bandit covered the customer and shoved him around to the back of the room. All four were ordered to lie on the floor. The rest of the bandits were heard to enter the room and they heard the silver rattling the money was scooped up. No bonds were taken. As near as Mr. Proctor can estimate the bandits took from $32,000 to $33,000. The cashiers and customer were in the vault about 25 minutes. When relieved he notified Marshal Ridley of Ironton, Sheriff Theorin at Brainerd, and the Bankers Association.

The bandits, according to Mr. Proctor, wore hats with broad brims pushed down on their foreheads. There is only one that he could identify being the first man to enter the bank and held up the customer. This bandit wore a light grey overcoat.

Mr. Nyhus, assistant cashier, stated to the Brainerd Daily Dispatch that approximately $35,000 was taken but as yet no complete check up had been made.

He stated that the bandits kept their heads down and it was difficult to see their faces.

The new State Crime Bureau of St. Paul was notified as well as police departments throughout the state.

Banks of this city will not be open for business on Friday, November 11, this being a legal holiday.

JOHN C. LODGE DEFEATS OPPONENT BY 9,000 VOTES

SMITH

LATTER PLEADED FOR RE-ELEC-TION ON GROUND HE WAS WET

Detroit, Nov. 9.—(UP)—John C. Lodge, grand uncle of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was elected mayor of Detroit yesterday, nosing out his wet opponent by 9,000 votes.

Returns from all but nine of the city's 606 precincts today gave Lodge 115,177 votes, compared with 106,921 for Mayor John W. Smith.

Lodge made no campaign whatever. He was drafted by 50,000 citizens to run, and throughout the campaign he remained silent. Mayor Smith made a two-listed speaking campaign, pleading for re-election on the ground that he was wet.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Racing interests in Kentucky appeared this morning to have won their biggest political battle, with incomplete unofficial returns indicating that Flen D. Sampson (Rep.) had defeated J. C. Beckham (Dem.) for governor.

Beckham, former governor and congressman, had campaigned on a platform opposing pari-mutuel betting on horse races.

The racing issue and spirited municipal campaigns in many cities both had tended to disrupt party lines, and observers said the victory of the republican gubernatorial candidate had little party significance.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Two men lost their lives in election disturbances in Kentucky yesterday.

Gill Lewis, 30, a candidate for city council at Everett, Harlan county, was shot and killed in a dispute with Will Gibson, 45. Floyd Lewis, the victim's brother, was wounded in the fight.

Lindsey Clark, 30, was shot and killed at Prestonburg in a political argument with Melvin Wells, farmer.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Ohio Anti-Saloon league smarted today under its first rebuke by the electorate in nine years.

The Marshall bill to re-establish justice of peace courts on a fee system, fathered by the drys as an enforcement measure, was crushed in yesterday's balloting by a majority expected to approximate 300,000.

Unofficial returns today from 7,075 precincts gave the opponents of the Anti-Saloon league 699,411 compared with 359,280 in favor of the referendum measure.

Cleveland, in one of its most bitter off-year elections, voted to retain the city manager plan of government.

In Cincinnati, incomplete returns from the municipal election indicated the charter committee candidates for council had defeated the organization candidates.

New York, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Yesterday's election in New York state was further proof of the strength of Governor Alfred E. Smith in his home state, politicians said, pointing to the defeat of the amendment to increase the term of office of governor, lieutenant governor and several other offices.

Smith had rejected the proposal, as had the entire democratic forces. Independent republicans and independents also were said to have rejected the measure. It was defeated by about

12TH ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL GOODWILL CONGRESS

SPONSORED BY WORLD ALLIANCE
FOR INTERNATIONAL
FRIENDSHIP

OPERATING THROUGH CHURCHES
SEEKS EXPRESSION OF U. S.
IN INTERNATIONAL AREA

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The 12th annual International Goodwill Congress, sponsored by the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches, opened here today with the avowed purpose of bringing about a clear-cut expression of America's position in international affairs.

Men prominent in peace efforts in many nations were among the delegates, who had arrived here singly for the past week and participated in individual meetings in and near St. Louis designed to create interest in efforts to promote peace.

Membership of the congress is drawn from virtually every religious sect in America. Catholic, Protestant and Jew joined in an effort to promote a common search for international brotherhood. America's historic refusal to enter the League of Nations was accepted virtually as final, but a clarification of this nation's position in international affairs was sought.

Rev. William P. Merrill, D. D., of New York, president of the World Alliance for International Friendship, was to open the first session of the congress this afternoon with an address on "Recent Developments and Future Opportunities of the World Alliance."

2 to 1 with New York City defeating the measure almost 3 to 1.

Other amendments which seem to have been approved yesterday include one to increase the salary of the governor from $10,000 to $25,000 annually. The measure had a good majority in Manhattan but met with opposition up-state.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Indianapolis had a new mayor today and it appeared likely that the tangled trail of resignations, ousters and injunctions which has kept city affairs in a turmoil for weeks had come to an end.

The city council yesterday elected L. E. Slack, attorney, to fill out the unexpired term of Mayor John L. Duval, who resigned and was ousted the same day.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9.—(UP)—A sweeping victory for the Vire organization in Philadelphia seemed assured today, with Harry A. Mackey, organization majority candidate, leading J. Hampton Moore by more than three to one with half the city's divisions counted.

Latest returns showed Mackey had polled 170,099 votes to Moore's 53,990.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Political lineup of the New Jersey legislature apparently was changed very little by yesterday's election.

Incomplete returns today showed the republicans had lost two assemblymen and had gained one senator. This will give the republicans the same strong control of both houses that they have held.

Meridian, Miss., Nov. 9.—(UP)—In an election yesterday, in which scarcely 25 per cent of the voting population went to the polls, former Governor Theodore G. Bilbo was elected governor.

The balloting was only a formality. Bilbo was unopposed. He was nominated in the August democratic primary, over Governor Dennis Murphree.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Mayor James Rolph, Jr., San Francisco, was re-elected yesterday when the greatest vote ever cast in the Bay City was polled.

Total returns from 900 out of the 922 precincts today gave Rolph 83,764; Power, 55,130; Uhl, 10,561.

MINERS START 'MARCH ON LONDON'; ARE OUT OF WORK

Newport, Wales, Nov. 9.—(UP)—About 300 unemployed miners started their "march on London" today to call to the attention of Great Britain unemployment conditions in the coal fields of south Wales.

Most of the marchers were young men, although a few old ones hobbled along with sticks.

They intend making a demonstration at Trafalgar square, and expect to send a deputation to the prime minister calling attention to the fact that between forty and fifty thousand miners in south Wales are unemployed. Many of them are without relief because of the near bankruptcy of local governments.

The number of marchers had been limited to less than 300 so that the "army" might not become unruly. Labor leaders have arranged to feed the men at Salvation Army barracks and labor halls along the line of march. The leaders have promised that the men will be handled with strict discipline.

SUPPLIES ARE RUSHED INTO VERMONT TODAY

CARAVANS OF MOTOR TRUCKS
CARRY CLOTHING
AND FOOD

TO AID RESIDENTS OF THE
FLOODED AREAS
OF STATE

Boston, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Caravans of motor trucks were pushing into Vermont's flood zone today, carrying clothing and food for residents of the flooded areas.

General Preston Brown, commandant of the first corps area, is directing relief work from temporary headquarters at Burlington, where an emergency flying base will be established. Planes now employed in dropping supplies to isolated towns will take off from the new flying base.

Although snow is interfering with transportation in some quarters contact has been established with most of the flooded communities according to General Brown's report.

When Newport was reached yesterday, for the first time since the overflow of waters, property damage was found to be great, but no lives had been lost.

A large army transport plane carried food and medicine to Newport because snow made travel over the country roads almost impossible.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Anticipating the aid of a $500,000 loan, Vermont today was embarked on a definite flood reconstruction program.

Finding it impossible to call a special session of the legislature because of transportation difficulties, Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont announced he would appeal to state banks to underwrite a half million dollar fund. He was confident more funds would be forthcoming when needed.

Conditions in the other New England states were reported greatly improved today. All dangers from swollen lakes and rivers had passed.

Reports from the Red Cross and other relief agencies showed that approximately 7,500 homeless were still being cared for in Vermont.

Food, clothing, fuel and medicine had been plentifully supplied, it was reported, and only in isolated instances was relief still needed.

A survey of flood damage in Vermont revealed that one of the most serious effects was the widespread loss of tillable soil. On numerous farms, all land which could be used for planting had been washed away, and agriculturists believe it would be necessary to use for tillage land which never before had been planted.

Railroad service gradually was being restored but officials indicated some of the more seriously disrupted lines could not be operated again on a normal basis for weeks.

MOVE MADE ON PART OF GOVERNMENT

INVESTIGATING GRAND JURY IS
PROBING THE ALLEGED
JURY TAMPERING

TWO JURORS REPORTED TO SAY
THEY WERE ACTUALLY
APPROACHED

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The 12 Fall-Sinclair jurors were asked today to confront the 15 Burns detectives who shadowed them during the late conspiracy trial.

This move is part of a government effort to identify the actors in the espionage system as reported to the investigating grand jury by the jurors. Two jurors say they were actually approached.

The jurors will appear late today or tomorrow, government attorneys said. All 15 sleuths were congregated today in the court house where the jury tampering investigation is taking place.

This development, resulting from statements yesterday by the alleged approached jurors, John J. Costinnett and Gardner P. Grenfell, followed close on a mysterious appearance before the grand jury of Sheldon Clark, well known Chicago sportsman and vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company.

Clark, charged by government attorneys as being a "principal" in Harry F. Sinclair's alleged employment of Burns detectives to keep jurors under surveillance, appeared before the grand jury for a few minutes. Then he announced he was to return tomorrow. He was accompanied by two lawyers.

Clark is charged with having aided Mason Day, Sinclair international agent, in directing the espionage. Day and Sinclair and "unnamed others" have been formally charged in a government complaint with conspiracy to tamper with the jury, and District Attorney Peyton Gordon has expressed opinion the government has a strong case.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Sheldon Clark, Sinclair oil official and alleged "contact man" between Harry F. Sinclair and the Burns detective espionage of the Fall-Sinclair trial jurors here, went today before the grand jury. He was accompanied by his lawyer, Morgan Beach.

Clark said he "might have something to say" when he came out of the grand jury room, where some 45 witnesses have been questioned in the last ten days concerning charges of jury tampering which caused a mistrial in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial a week ago.

Clark came out of the grand jury room after five minutes, smiling. He refused to talk further than to say he had been told to return tomorrow.

Clark's short stay, and the fact that he was accompanied by two attorneys, George Schein, Chicago, and Morgan Beach, led to reports that he had refused to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination, but both government and defense attorneys refused to discuss this phase.

"I wish I could talk, boys, but I can't," Clark said. "I haven't finished before the grand jury yet."

The government charges Clark and Mason Day, Sinclair Exploration Company vice-president, were the agents for Sinclair in directing the espionage.

Meanwhile the government sought evidence to establish identity of two men who approached jurors Gardner Grenfell and John J. Costinnett during the recent trial asking questions about the probable outcome of the trial.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—This business of marriage becomes an art after so long a time, declared Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dennis, Minneapolis, who were married last Friday.

Each has been married on three different occasions. He is 80, and she 62.

UNITED STATES HAS NO AGGRESSIVE MOTIVES, SAYS PRES. COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—President Coolidge is not committed on either side of a proposal by Henry Wickham Stead, British journalist, that the United States enter an agreement not to "aid, abet, or comfort" an aggressor nation.

It was said at the White House that the president found the proposal "very interesting." He was represented as feeling that other nations understood the United States had no aggressive motives. On the other hand he was said to take the position that the United States has certain commercial and other rights that might not be best served under such an agreement.

MARINE CORPS AVIATORS LOST IN NICARAGUA

LIEUTENANT THOMAS AND SER-
GEANT FRANK DOWDELL
MISSING

SEVERAL REPORTS OF THEIR
FATE ARRIVED FROM NA-
TIVE SOURCES

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Lieutenant E. A. Thomas and Sergeant Frank Dowdell, American marine corps aviators captured by Nicaraguan rebels, still are listed as missing in marine corps records here.

Several reports of their fate have arrived from native sources, but none has been confirmed.

Marine patrols, reinforced by airplanes have been going out daily in the rebel-infested interior in hope of obtaining definite news of the flyers' fate.

On October 19, a native report was received and published in the United States which told a graphic story of the two aviators fighting gallantly against odds after their plane crashed on a mountainside where marines and American-offered native constabulary were fighting rebels.

It was said that the aviators took possession of a small hillside house near their plane and fought desperately until their ammunition was exhausted.

Then, natives declared, rebels rushed the house and threw dynamite bombs through the windows, badly wounding both flyers.

Authorities have been unable to confirm this report.

Marines seeking the aviators are encountering strong rebel bands, who retire only after fighting stubbornly. The rugged nature of the northern interior makes pursuit difficult.

But with the approach of the dry season, and with the help of the constabulary, marines hope to clear the district and determine definitely the fate of their two fellows.

DRASTIC CENSORSHIP RULING IN ROUMANIA

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Coincident with the imposition of a drastic censorship, parliament today passed a law prescribing five to ten year sentences for anyone who discusses the question of succession to the throne.

The government hopes the law will suppress entirely the movement in favor of former Crown Prince Carol, and will prevent opposition leaders from reviving their demands that Carol be made king or that the regency under which Carol's six-year-old son Michael now rules be abolished.

I. C. C. VALUES GREAT NORTHERN AT $382,400,000

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today fixed a final valuation as of June, 1915, of $382,400,000 on the Great Northern railroad.

FEDERAL ESTATE TAX IN NEW REVENUE BILL

PROVISION FROWNED ON BY
WHITE HOUSE AND
TREASURY

POLL TAKEN OF HOUSE WAYS
AND MEANS COM-
MITTEE

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 9.—The house ways and means committee apparently intends to retain in its new revenue bill the federal estate tax frowned on by the White House and the treasury.

Poll of the committee today indicated sentiment two to one in favor of the existing levy permitting states to tax up to 80 per cent of the federal law, thereby seeking uniformity of state levies on inheritances.

Charges that a wealthy lobby is seeking repeal, coupled with defense of the existing system by republican Chairman Green and the democratic tax leader, Rep. Garner, Texas, have placed the committee in a hostile attitude toward the treasury recommendation.

The present law has been bitterly fought by many states, particularly Florida, where many wealthy men have summer homes. Florida has no estate tax and hence the federal government there collects all the tax.

The committee today continued its inquiry into the source of funds used to pay expenses of the council of state legislatures working here for repeal of the tax. Thus far, it developed, the organization grew out of the old American Taxpayers League and used funds left by that organization.

Officials of the organization contend the funds were raised by small subscriptions throughout the country and have denied any large sums were received from wealthy men seeking repeal of the tax. The exact amount spent has not been determined.

Witnesses today included Chester H. Rowell of the California State Tax Commission, Benjamin C. Marsh, Peoples Reconstruction League, and additional delegates from the Council of Legislatures.

The hearings will close tomorrow with testimony concerning special taxes, and the committee then will go into executive session to frame its bill for congress.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The word "insult" crept again today into the house ways and means committee hearing on abolition of the federal estate tax.

Rep. Rainey, democrat, Illinois, who demanded an investigation of an alleged rich lobby working for repeal of the tax clashed with Louis A. Cuvellier, New York, state legislator, who said the committee had "insulted" witnesses.

Rainey replied that never before had governors and members of state legislatures admitted before congressional committees that they received pay or expense money for appearing in behalf of proposed legislation.

TUG RUSHES TO AID OF GROUNDED PASSENGER STEAMER

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The tug Salvage King was rushing today to the aid of the passenger steamer Catala, ashore off Finlayson Island, 20 miles north of Prince Rupert.

The Catala went ashore late yesterday and sent out S. O. S. calls for assistance. The tug left here at 9:30 P. M.

Radio reports received here early today indicated the 30 passengers aboard the ship were safe.

GOV. CHRISTIANSON URGES SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Governor Theodore Christianson today issued his proclamation calling upon the citizens of Minnesota to support the Red Cross in its annual roll call which opens Friday, Armistice Day.

TO AID RESIDENTS OF THE
FLOODED AREAS
OF STATE

Boston, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Caravans of motor trucks were pushing into Vermont's flood zone today, carrying clothing and food for residents of the flooded areas.

General Preston Brown, commandant of the first corps area, is directing relief work from temporary headquarters at Burlington, where an emergency flying base will be established. Planes now employed in dropping supplies to isolated towns will take off from the new flying base.

Although snow is interfering with transportation in some quarters contact has been established with most of the flooded communities according to General Brown's report.

When Newport was reached yesterday, for the first time since the overflow of waters, property damage was found to be great, but no lives had been lost.

A large army transport plane carried food and medicine to Newport because snow made travel over the country roads almost impossible.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Anticipating the aid of a $500,000 loan, Vermont today was embarked on a definite flood reconstruction program.

Finding it impossible to call a special session of the legislature because of transportation difficulties, Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont announced he would appeal to state banks to underwrite a half million dollar fund. He was confident more funds would be forthcoming when needed.

Conditions in the other New England states were reported greatly improved today. All dangers from swollen lakes and rivers had passed. Reports from the Red Cross and other relief agencies showed that approximately 7,500 homeless were still being cared for in Vermont.

Food, clothing, fuel and medicine had been plentifully supplied, it was reported, and only in isolated instances was relief still needed.

A survey of flood damage in Vermont revealed that one of the most serious effects was the widespread loss of tillable soil. On numerous farms, all land which could be used for planting had been washed away, and agriculturists believe it would be necessary to use for tillage land which never before had been planted.

Railroad service gradually was being restored but officials indicated some of the more seriously disrupted lines could not be operated again on a normal basis for weeks.

MOVE MADE ON PART OF GOVERNMENT

INVESTIGATING GRAND JURY IS
PROBING THE ALLEGED
JURY TAMPERING

TWO JURORS REPORTED TO SAY
THEY WERE ACTUALLY
APPROACHED

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The 12 Fall-Sinclair jurors were asked today to confront the 15 Burns detectives who shadowed them during the late conspiracy trial.

This move is part of a government effort to identify the actors in the espionage system as reported to the investigating grand jury by the jurors. Two jurors say they were actually approached.

The jurors will appear late today or tomorrow, government attorneys said. All 15 sleuths were congregated today in the court house where the jury tampering investigation is taking place.

This development, resulting from statements yesterday by the alleged jury tamperers, John J. Costinett and Gardner P. Grenfell, followed close on a mysterious appearance before the grand jury of Sheldon Clark, well known Chicago sportsman and vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company.

Clark, charged by government attorneys as being a "principal" in Harry F. Sinclair's alleged employment of Burns detectives to keep jurors under surveillance, appeared before the grand jury for a few minutes. Then he announced he was to return tomorrow. He was accompanied by two lawyers.

Clark is charged with having aided Mason Day, Sinclair international agent, in directing the espionage. Day and Sinclair and "unnamed others" have been formally charged in a government complaint with conspiracy to tamper with the jury, and District Attorney Peyton Gordon has expressed opinion the government has a strong case.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Sheldon Clark, Sinclair official and alleged "contact man" between Harry F. Sinclair and the Burns detective espionage of the Fall-Sinclair trial jurors here, went today before the grand jury. He was accompanied by his lawyer, Morgan Beach.

Clark said he "might have something to say" when he came out of the grand jury room, where some 45 witnesses have been questioned in the last ten days concerning charges of jury tampering which caused a mistrial in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial a week ago.

Clark came out of the grand jury room after five minutes, smiling. He refused to talk further than to say he had been told to return tomorrow. Clark's short stay, and the fact that he was accompanied by two attorneys, George Schein, Chicago, and Morgan Beach, led to reports that he had refused to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination, but both government and defense attorneys refused to discuss this phase.

"I wish I could talk, boys, but I can't," Clark said. "I haven't finished before the grand jury yet."

The government charges Clark and Mason Day, Sinclair Exploration Company vice-president, were the agents for Sinclair in directing the espionage.

Meanwhile the government sought evidence to establish identity of two men who approached Jurors Gardner Grenfell and John J. Costinett during the recent trial asking questions about the probable outcome of the trial.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—This business of marriage becomes an art after so long a time, declared Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dennis, Minneapolis, who were married last Friday.

Each has been married on three different occasions. He is 80, and she 62.

UNITED STATES HAS NO AGGRESSIVE MOTIVES, SAYS PRES. COOLIDGE

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—President Coolidge is not committed on either side of a proposal by Henry Wickham Steed, British journalist, that the United States enter an agreement not to "aid, abet, or comfort" an aggressor nation.

It was said at the White House that the president found the proposal "very interesting." He was represented as feeling that other nations understood the United States had no aggressive motives. On the other hand he was said to take the position that the United States has certain commercial and other rights that might not be best served under such an agreement.

MARINE CORPS AVIATORS LOST IN NICARAGUA

LIEUTENANT THOMAS AND SER-
GEANT FRANK DOWDELL
MISSING

SEVERAL REPORTS OF THEIR
FATE ARRIVED FROM NA-
TIVE SOURCES

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Lieutenant E. A. Thomas and Sergeant Frank Dowdell, American marine corps aviators captured by Nicaraguan rebels, still are listed as missing in marine corps records here.

Several reports of their fate have arrived from native sources, but none has been confirmed.

Marine patrols, reinforced by airplanes have been going out daily in the rebel-infested interior in hope of obtaining definite news of the flyers' fate.

On October 19, a native report was received and published in the United States which told a graphic story of the two aviators fighting gallantly against odds after their plane crashed on a mountainside where marines and American-officered native constabulary were fighting rebels.

It was said that the aviators took possession of a small hillside house near their plane and fought desperately until their ammunition was exhausted.

Then, natives declared, rebels rushed the house and threw dynamite bombs through the windows, badly wounding both flyers.

Authorities have been unable to confirm this report.

Marines seeking the aviators are encountering strong rebel bands, who retire only after fighting stubbornly. The rugged nature of the northern interior makes pursuit difficult.

But with the approach of the dry season, and with the help of the constabulary, marines hope to clear the district and determine definitely the fate of their two fellows.

DRASTIC CENSORSHIP RULING IN ROUMANIA

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Coincident with the imposition of a drastic censorship, parliament today passed a law prescribing five to ten year sentences for anyone who discusses the question of succession to the throne.

The government hopes the law will suppress entirely the movement in favor of former Crown Prince Carol, and will prevent opposition leaders from reviving their demands that Carol be made king or that the regency under which Carol's six-year-old son Michael now rules be abolished.

I. C. C. VALUES GREAT NORTHERN AT $382,400,000

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today fixed a final valuation as of June, 1915, of $382,400,000 on the Great Northern railroad.

FEDERAL ESTATE TAX IN NEW REVENUE BILL

PROVISION FROWNED ON BY
WHITE HOUSE AND
TREASURY

POLL TAKEN OF HOUSE WAYS
AND MEANS COM-
MITTEE

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 9.—The house ways and means committee apparently intends to retain in its new revenue bill the federal estate tax frown on by the White House and the treasury.

Poll of the committee today indicated sentiment two to one in favor of the existing levy permitting states to tax up to 80 per cent of the federal law, thereby seeking uniformity of state levies on inheritances.

Charges that a wealthy lobby is seeking repeal, coupled with defense of the existing system by republican Chairman Green and the democratic tax leader, Rep. Garner, Texas, have placed the committee in a hostile attitude toward the treasury recommendation.

The present law has been bitterly fought by many states, particularly Florida, where many wealthy men have summer homes. Florida has no estate tax and hence the federal government there collects all the tax.

The committee today continued its inquiry into the source of funds used to pay expenses of the council of state legislatures working here for repeal of the tax. Thus far, it developed, the organization grew out of the old American Taxpayers League and used funds left by that organization.

Officials of the organization contend the funds were raised by small subscriptions throughout the country and have denied any large sums were received from wealthy men seeking repeal of the tax. The exact amount spent has not been determined.

Witnesses today included Chester H. Rowell of the California State Tax Commission, Benjamin C. Marsh, Peoples Reconstruction League, and additional delegates from the Council of Legislatures.

The hearings will close tomorrow with testimony concerning special taxes, and the committee then will go into executive session to frame its bill for congress.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The word "insult" crept again today into the house ways and means committee hearing on abolition of the federal estate tax.

Rep. Rainey, democrat, Illinois, who demanded an investigation of an alleged rich lobby working for repeal of the tax clashed with Louis A. Cuvellier, New York, state legislator, who said the committee had "insulted" witnesses.

Rainey replied that never before had governors and members of state legislatures admitted before congressional committees that they received pay or expense money for appearing in behalf of proposed legislation.

TUG RUSHES TO AID OF GROUND PASSENGER STEAMER

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The tug Salvage King was rushing today to the aid of the passenger steamer Catala, ashore off Prince Rupert, 20 miles north of Finlayson Island.

The Catala went ashore late yesterday and sent out S. O. S. calls for assistance. The tug left here at 9:30 P. M.

Radio reports received here early today indicated the 30 passengers aboard the ship were safe.

Supt. J. A. Wilson returned from a trip over the county visiting the schools.

Some more promotions have been announced on the Northern Pacific and this time the bolt struck, A. J. Forsyth, who has been coal dock inspector for the N. P. for a number of years, and George Bouck, of the N. P. shops of this city. Mr. Forsyth has been promoted to the position of general foreman of the shops at Staples and Mr. Bouck is promoted to Mr. Forsyth's position, that of coal dock inspector of the entire system.

The fire department was called out this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to the corner of Sixth and Laurel, but there was no need of a stream as it was only an old chimney burning out.

The deer season opens Monday and a rich harvest of dead hunters can be confidently expected. Next to football it is the most deadly sport now in fashion.

Among the many good things in the line of entertainments this season will be a series of promenade concerts given by the Marine band. The band is adding new members of ability and practicing hard for the coming events, under the leadership of Ed. Brown, Frank Sykora having resigned. Promenade concerts are designed to please both lovers of music and dancers, as they are composed of concert music and round dances. The boys have a large repertoire of new and up-to-date music, which has not yet been played by local musicians. The Marine band was organized about a year ago and has developed considerable musical ability and should receive the support of the public at these entertainments.

JOINT MEETING HELD

Surprise Part of Program Proves Interesting Feature of Evening

At the joint meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary Monday evening Mrs. J. A. Forrester, 6th district chairman, of St. Cloud gave a very interesting talk on the National American Legion convention at Paris. Chester Benson, a local delegate, who was a passenger on the same boat with Mrs. Forrester, also told of his trip.

The latter part of the program for the evening proved to be a surprise to most of the members.

In the horse race, "Spark Plug" won from "Dan Patch." Earl Rhodes, the jockey, was presented with a wreath of flowers. Art Hagberg and A. Isaacson were the winners in the boxing match. George Bates and Harold Nelson being completely kayoed. William Swanson won the prize for speed on roller skates and Kirk Smith for the most graceful tumbles.

The Legion will sponsor a dance Armistice Day, Friday. The wives of the legionnaires were requested to bring their husbands.

At a late hour Mrs. A. M. Hagberg, Mrs. Harold Nelson and Mrs. Fred Sargeant served refreshments.

The band is adding new members of ability and practicing hard for the coming events, under the leadership of Ed. Brown, Frank Sykora having resigned. Promenade concerts are designed to please both lovers of music and dancers, as they are composed of concert music and round dances. The boys have a large repertoire of new and up-to-date music, which has not yet been played by local musicians. The Marine band was organized about a year ago and has developed considerable musical ability and should receive the support of the public at these entertainments.

JOINT MEETING HELD

Surprise Part of Program Proves Interesting Feature of Evening

At the joint meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary Monday evening Mrs. J. A. Forrester, 6th district chairman, of St. Cloud gave a very interesting talk on the National American Legion convention at Paris. Chester Benson, a local delegate, who was a passenger on the same boat with Mrs. Forrester, also told of his trip.

The latter part of the program for the evening proved to be a surprise to most of the members.

In the horse race, "Spark Plug" won from "Dan Patch." Earl Rhodes, the jockey, was presented with a wreath of flowers. Art Hagberg and A. Isaacson were the winners in the boxing match, George Bates and Harold Nelson being completely kayoed. William Swanson won the prize for speed on roller skates and Kirk Smith for the most graceful tumbles.

The Legion will sponsor a dance Armistice Day, Friday. The wives of the legionnaires were requested to bring their husbands.

At a late hour Mrs. A. M. Hagberg, Mrs. Harold Nelson and Mrs. Fred Sargeant served refreshments.

Home and Foreign Missionary Society

The Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. W. Hoeft, 713 Willow street. All members are urged to be present.

County Health Nurse Gives Talk

Miss Thora Ingebritson, county health nurse, gave a talk last evening on toxin anti toxin at the Cuyuna P. T. A. She also announced that arrangements have been made to vaccinate a large number of the pupils in the rural districts for diphtheria. Last spring Bay Lake township and village of Deerwood was immunized and Deerwood scores one hundred per cent.

3 MEN ARRESTED;
$26,000 WORTH OF
BONDS RECOVERED

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Three men were arrested here today and $26,000 worth of bonds recovered, police announced today.

The bonds are said to be part of the loot of two bank robberies which netted handits $648,000.

Most of the bonds recovered are said to be identified as those stolen from the Peoples Trust and Savings Bank of La Porte, Ind. The other bank robbed was the First National Bank of Columbus, Wis., police said.

The men were arrested as one of them handed $5,000 worth of the bonds to a local salesman, officials announced. It is said they came here from Chicago.

THREE DAY CAMP OPENS TOMORROW

INSTRUCTIONS OUTLINED

Fall Camp Put on as Experiment; Many Reservations Have Already Been Received

A three day fall camp for boy scouts will open at Camp Clearwater on Clearwater Lake tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock under the direction of B. Perry Newton scout executive, that promises to attract many of the scouts in this area. The camp will be held regardless of weather conditions.

Many reservations have already been received. Every scout planning to attend is reminded to prepare himself for the occasion. At least four heavy, woolen blankets, a suit of woolen underwear to be used in place of pajamas for sleeping apparel, high boots or oiled boots, should be included in the kit of every scout as well as an ample supply of food to last over Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"All scouts wishing to come out are free to do so at no cost other than their food which they will buy themselves, and transportation. If you can't come out on Thursday, come out Friday and Saturday or come out Thursday and come back Friday if necessary. In fact you are welcome to come and stay as long as you like or as short a time as you like. This type of camp is an experiment and if enough boys take advantage of it and like it, we may try it again," Mr. Newton said today.

Artists and Guests Enjoyed Party After Evening Performance

The members of the Augler Brothers Stock Company which is playing a week's engagement at the Park theatre, were entertained at a buffet supper at the rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal church, by Herman Brichacek and the Rev. Robert J. Long, last Monday evening.

Immediately after the evening performance twelve of the members of the company were taken to the party, given in their honor and were received by Rev. R. J. Long, Herman Brichacek, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hiller, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Campbell.

During the evening games and visiting were enjoyed by all. The dining room was lighted by yellow and white candles alone and the table and buffet were massed with yellow and white pom poms. Those assisting in the dining room were the Misses Irmagard Seeger, Thelma Bowers, Margaret Gipson, Elizabeth Reinertson.

ROYALTY RUNS IN NIGHT CLOTHES TO ESCAPE FIRE

London, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Princess Mary, only daughter of King George, and her husband Viscount Lascelles, were among a number of the nobility who escaped in their night clothes early today when fire broke out at Bretton Park, Wakefield.

Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles were among the distinguished guests of Lord Allendale, who was entertaining a house party at Bretton Park, his Yorkshire estate.

The members of the house party had retired after the usual evening amusement when the alarm of fire was raised after flames had been seen issuing from the nursery wing of the big house.

Guests were able to leave in safety if hurriedly.

Shivering in the night air, they watched with interest the work of the Wakefield and Barnsley fire brigades which had been summoned by telephone.

Princess Mary stood close to the firemen, who soon had the blaze under control.

None of the excited returned to bed. An informal breakfast was served, after the guests had retired to their rooms. Many of them went as scheduled on a shooting party that had been arranged.

LUMBERJACK ON TRIAL FOR AX KILLING

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 8.—(UP)—John "Pelican Jack" Pariky, lumberjack, went on trial in district court here today for the backwoods "ax killing" of Charles Rebie, 32.

Rebie was killed Oct. 9 in what was said to have been a drunken brawl at a lumber camp near here.

"Pelican Jack" was expected to plead self defense.

Community Building

Lay Out Community

With Eye to Future

Preventive planning, which foresees and prevents mistakes in building, is recommended to village communities. As in the cities, rebuilding after a bad start may be expensive but cheaper in the long run. Exceptional new villages planned recently, with an eye to the future, include Mariemont, Ohio; Longview, Wash.; Pinehurst, N. C.; and Palo Verde, Calif. Other villages are rebuilding either in large-scale reconstruction work at one time or by adoption of long-term plans for replacement of undesirable buildings as they wear out. The movement is country-wide and supported by planning associations and boards in several states. A long list of towns and villages which have initiated planning practices includes such scattered communities as Weston, Mass.; Leroy, Ohio; Forrest City, N. C.; Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Post, Texas; Pipestone, Minn.; Logan, Utah, and Durham and Patterson, Calif. Village planning represents not a waste but a saving of money in forestalling the need to spend great sums in the future in reconstruction and in providing for the economic, social and esthetic welfare of the 20,000,000 people who live in villages or small towns and of the 30,000,000 farm people who use them.

Des Moines Enforces

Strict Building Code

All persons will have to apply for a permit before beginning construction in Des Moines now, following adoption by the city council of the new building code first proposed eight years ago.

Under the code all buildings will have to conform to rules and regulations enforced by the city building commissioner, and provide specifications for weight and quality of materials used in buildings within the city limits, as well as for quality of workmanship.

It was drawn up by a group of local architects, contractors, and real estate men, in conjunction with V. O. Marriott, city building commissioner.

Building activities in Des Moines have previously been loosely governed by the state housing law and a number of "ancient" city ordinances.

Brick Quality Guarantee

A brick is unique in that it is the one building material that is self-tested and carries its own guarantee in its ring. It is the only material of all the long list that a novice may judge with perfect safety. So long as a brick rings true when two are struck together, it needs no other certificate of character.

The standards of brick have been so long established and are so well recognized in the construction world that it rarely happens that bricks are offered in the markets that are not of good quality. Unless they are good there is no demand or sale for them. Nor is there any inducement for the manufacturer to attempt to make an inferior article, knowing that these conditions are universal.

Model English Towns

"In England there is an association called Garden Cities and Town Planning, which has sponsored a number of splendid developments, of which the most noted are Letchworth and Welwyn, both of which are self-contained towns, just outside the city of London. Another, especially interesting, is Bourneville, near Birmingham, built through the philanthropy and foresight of Cadbury. Bourneville consists of about four hundred acres, laid out attractively with hundreds of houses built under the plans laid out by the founder. They are chiefly constructed of brick. The houses are set well back from the street and provide plenty of room for the always expected English flower garden.

South Imported Buttons

During the Civil war, the northern states were able to supply all the buttons needed by the Union army. At the outbreak of the war button manufacturers in Europe expected to receive orders from both the North and the South, but were disappointed to find as time went on that the North could fill its own requirements. They found some consolation, however, in being called upon to supply all the buttons needed by the southern states, though in doing so, they were forced to run the blockade. There were numerous losses of cargoes as a result and this made it necessary to charge high prices for the buttons that reached their destination.—Exchange.

Art on a Large Scale

City planning and architecture are just as truly art, and fine art, as painting or sculpture, but because they are primarily utilitarian they are perhaps less well understood or appreciated. The fact is, however, that city planning and building are intimately allied to everyday life, and the city planner and the architect, therefore, have it within their power to demonstrate to the people at large the value of art as no other artist has.—Lella Meehin in the Washington Star.

Feed Green Soy Beans to Improve Milk Flavor

Experiments just reported by the United States Department of Agriculture show that feeding green soy beans to dairy cows just before milking them tends to improve the flavor of the milk. The soy beans were fed in quantities up to 30 pounds per cow. The soy beans were first fed when the plants began to form pods and were continued until the beans had reached full size, but were not hard. While soy beans improve the milk flavor, rape fed green just before milking had the opposite effect, imparting an objectionable flavor to the milk.

Dairy Facts

Always feed grain according to the amount of milk produced.

When calves are fed grain in stanchions, each gets its share.

Alfalfa has a high feeding value in that it is palatable and nutritious.

Three-leaf clover is as lucky as four-leaf, if the dairymen have enough of it.

Dairymen should feed all the legume hay and silage that a cow will eat up clean.

A good dairy cow probably consumes more water than any other domestic animal. The more feed consumed, the more water the cow requires.

Provide silage for the herd. No dairymen can reach real permanent prosperity without a silo, or at least the silo will materially increase his stability and prosperity.

One form of garget is chronic and "catching," and if you get that into your herd, the only cure is to sell off the affected cows.

The important thing for the dairymen is to provide a convenient place and an abundance of hot water for washing and rinsing all utensils.

Herd uniformity and beauty may seem to have an intangible value only. But when it comes to selling the offspring that view is quickly changed. Beauty is an asset.

Has He Refinement?

The truly refined soul is one who lacks ostentation, love of gaudy display and noisy colors. Refined people do not judge values by the money cost, alone. There is reserve, gentleness, generosity, simplicity.

Thank you

and a decent, clean appreciation of self—not a self-condemning, affected manner full of false modesty, artificial blushing and lowering of the eyes, etc.

True lovers of art and natural beauty write very plain capital letters, minus scrolls and cross cuts. Some of the greatest of artists even print the first capital letter, so great is their desire for simplicity and clearness of form.

The Greek e in the body of a word or in small letters at the end of a word is evidence of a soul searching out for betterment—for learning for improvement. Another interesting mark of those who love self-improvement and refinement is the Greek small d, which is made in one stroke, with the last stroke flung backward.

Small g's resembling figure 8's are often seen in the writing of the person seeking for self-improvement and intellectual culture.

Simplicity, with good spacing between the words of even size characterizes the writer who loves genuine culture and improvement of the soul.

Red Cross Nurses Aid In Every Great Disaster

Two major disasters, the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi flood, required the services of Red Cross nurses in large numbers over a long period of time in the past year.

In the Florida storm, service of 350 nurses is recorded. It is estimated that about 100 others assisted in the first few days as volunteers. The total number of nurses in the Mississippi valley flood was approximately 200 in every major disaster the services of Red Cross nurses are needed, lending added importance to the enrolled reserve which now numbers more than 45,000 Red Cross nurses. These nurses are available for any emergency, though they are on duty in hospitals and in private practice. They constitute the reserve of the Army and Navy nurse corps in time of war.

Besides emergency duty, Red Cross nurses assisted materially in many local services, Chapter reports to National Headquarters indicate. The Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, from November 11 to 24, it is pointed out, is an opportunity for everyone to become identified with the Red Cross.

Herd uniformity and beauty may seem to have an intangible value only. But when it comes to selling the offspring that view is quickly changed. Beauty is an asset.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Has He Refinement?

The truly refined soul is one who lacks ostentation, love of gaudy display and noisy colors. Refined people do not judge values by the money cost, alone.

There is reserve, gentleness, nobility, generosity, simplicity.

Thank you

and a decent, clean appreciation of self—not a self-condemning, affected manner full of false modesty, artificial blushing and lowering of the eyes, etc.

True lovers of art and natural beauty write very plain capital letters, minus scrolls and cross cuts. Some of the greatest of artists even print the first capital letter, so great is their desire for simplicity and clearness of form.

The Greek e in the body of a word or in small letters at the end of a word is evidence of a soul searching out for betterment—for learning for improvement. Another interesting mark of those who love self-improvement and refinement is the Greek small d, which is made in one stroke, with the last stroke flung backward. Small g's resembling figure 8's are often seen in the writing of the person seeking for self-improvement and intellectual culture.

Simplicity, with good spacing between the words of even size characterizes the writer who loves genuine culture and improvement of the soul.

Red Cross Nurses Aid In Every Great Disaster

Two major disasters, the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi flood, required the services of Red Cross nurses in large numbers over a long period of time in the past year.

In the Florida storm, service of 350 nurses is recorded. It is estimated that about 100 others assisted in the first few days as volunteers. The total number of nurses in the Mississippi valley flood was approximately 200 in every major disaster the services of Red Cross nurses are needed, lending added importance to the enrolled reserve which now numbers more than 45,000 Red Cross nurses. These nurses are available for any emergency, though they are on duty in hospitals and in private practice. They constitute the reserve of the Army and Navy nurse corps in time of war.

Besides emergency duty, Red Cross nurses assisted materially in many local services, Chapter reports to National Headquarters indicate. The Eleventh Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, from November 11 to 24, it is pointed out, is an opportunity for everyone to become identified with the Red Cross.

DURING the Pi Beta Phi convention held at Breezy Point Lodge last year and in which Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, Ransford Hotel, business men and other agencies also took an active interest, the E. F. Gates department store used its advertising space in the Brainerd Daily Dispatch to broadcast a welcome to the fraternity.

Recently, Mr. Gates ordered a bill of goods from the W. C. VanSant & Company firm of Baltimore, Maryland, and received a reply from Miss Louise N. VanSant, stating:

"Just a line to advise that your requirements on order placed will go forward probably by the end of the present week.

"At a meeting of my college fraternity Pi Beta Phi held last week a report of our convention which took place up in your neighborhood last summer was made. The delegates in order to show us how well our members were received in Brainerd had brought some clippings from your local paper. I was very much interested to see the enclosed ad among these clippings, and I am returning it to you as I believe you will be interested as well.

"The business of W. C. VanSant & Co. belongs to my father and I have for the last five or six years been going abroad each year to do the buying, having been associated with him since 1920.

"Assuring you that your order will be given prompt attention immediately on receipt of the merchandise and looking forward to having additional business from you during the next eight weeks, we remain, Yours very truly, L. N. VanSant of W. C. VanSant & Company."

This shows that kindly attentions are appreciated and that Brainerd and our lake region dwell in the remembrance of our visitors.

A POSTAL PROBLEM THIS CHRISTMAS

ONE of the chief aids of Santa Claus is our postal system. This year, as mentioned editorially by the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, Christmas comes upon Sunday. Orders just issued by Postmaster General New, promulgated through the Postal Bulletin all over the land, arouse the vast postal machine to its annual emergency, the Christmas rush of mail. The fact that the chief day in the Christian calendar falls upon Sunday, and is celebrated Monday, adds to the postal problem.

It may seem that the postal workers gain a day. Quite the reverse is the effect. Law and regulations are such that clerical work and carrier deliveries may not be performed on Sunday. A day's accumulation threatens on Monday. In the real holiday, in Monday's relaxation and rejoicing, the postal employees are entitled to share. Hence the orders are that postmasters everywhere (first) appeal with renewed vigor for early mailing and (second) do the utmost with Monday's glut of parcels and greetings in half a day's work. Whatever the conditions of this year's test the postal employees are to have a half holiday.

That is right. It should be so managed. The public owes its co-operation. Time of letters and packages in transit from Bemidji to all points in the United States and its possessions—for that matter, to all points in the world—no doubt will be easily ascertainable at the postoffice. Each sender who precalculates and mails in time for deliveries Friday or Saturday before Christmas will have shown besides common sense, the consideration due postal employees at Christmas time. Of such is the Christmas spirit.

"If I can be of any benefit to you or to your community, from this far away point, at any time, I will be pleased to have you write to me freely."

THE WORLD'S GREAT EVENTS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

(By Dodd, Mead & Company.)

The Inquisition

"I HAVE depopulated happy villages, rich towns and fertile districts of my beloved country in the holy name of religion," wrote Queen Isabella of Spain in the last part of the Fifteenth century.

But the religion of which she spoke was not one based upon the Scriptures, nor upon the creeds of either Catholics or Protestants, nor of any other branch of the Church of Christ. It was a man-made dogma, with torture and intimidation for basis.

In 1480 the Inquisition, or "Holy Office," as it was termed, was organized in Spain. The Spanish nation was almost at the height of its greatness. The marriage of Ferdinand and Isabella had united the mighty provinces of Castile and Aragon. There were thousands of Moors (Mahometans from Africa) and other non-Christians throughout the country. These were, in many cases, rich and powerful. The church feared that Christianity's supremacy was in danger. Hence the great body of Moors were driven out! and those who remained, as well as followers of other religions, were forced, on pain of death, to embrace Christianity. Then the Inquisition turned its attention to so-called heretics, and Spain gained a reputation for heartless cruelty from which it has never wholly recovered.

At Seville, in 1481, the Inquisition began its actual work. During that year, in Seville, alone, 298 victims were burned. Throughout all the nation about 2,000 suffered a like fate. Thomas of Torquemada, a Dominican, was made president of the holy office. He and his successor, Cardinal Ximenes, made it a national institution whose name aroused panic and hatred in every district of Spain and aroused even the callous Fifteenth century Englishmen to indignation.

The Inquisition's mode of procedure was unique. A man, woman or child was suspected of heresy, seized and subjected to an irregular preliminary examination. Then all the evidence and suspicious circumstances in the case were submitted to a higher body. The members of this, fearing lest their own holy zeal might otherwise be questioned, usually decided against the prisoner. The latter was then locked up in solitary confinement and a sort of "third degree" was applied to force a confession of guilt and to enroll the victim as a "penitent." If no confession was forthcoming the most horrible tortures were applied.

Most of these tortures were of too atrocious a nature to bear description. A few of the less unspeakable were the "thumb-screw," the "boot," the "rack" and the "virgin." The thumb-screw and boot crushed the fingers and feet, respectively, to a jelly. The rack was an apparatus to which a prisoner was strapped while every joint was stretched and twisted until sinews were torn apart and bones crushed. The "virgin" was a hollow image lined with spikes. The victim was placed within it and the spikes driven slowly into his flesh. In these hideous ways did the Inquisitors of Spain seek to enforce the gentle doctrines of peace, forgiveness and love.

If the suspect still refused to confess he was carried to the highest court of the Inquisition, and there, for the first time, he heard the charges against him and was allowed to reply to them. Heretofore, he had had no clear idea of what particular crime he was accused. The defense was usually a mere mockery. If the victim had wealthy friends he could appeal to Rome. Thus, while the local Inquisition confiscated the captive's property, the papal headquarters also got his friends' money.

In the rare cases of acquittal there was no redress for torture, imprisonment and loss of fortune. If convicted, the condemned heretic was burned alive. The motto of the holy office was "Misericordia et Justitia"—"Mercy and Justice!"

Such horrors drove people from the country by the hundred thousand. In seventy years the hitherto increasing population of Spain dropped from 10,000,000 to 6,000,000. Trade, agriculture, manufactures and all industries were brought to a standstill. Whole districts were depopulated.

But there is, perhaps, no great evil without some compensating good. While the reign of terror was at its height a golden gateway of escape opened to westward. America was discovered. In the new land men might hope to live reasonably free from the diabolical tortures of the Inquisition. Accordingly the maltreated Spaniards flocked thither in thousands. Towns, villages and rural districts in the New World were speedily filled by the refugees.

In considering the Inquisition it must not, for a moment, be imagined that the holy office had the approval of Christians at large, or that it reflected discredit on the true tenets of the church. There can be no great and holy cause that does not somewhere lead to abuses and misuse. So the medieval Spaniards merely used Christianity as an instrument whereby to wreak their own cruelty and injustice.

And, after all, were their crimes so much more atrocious than the slaying of craggy old women as witches by the pious Puritans of New England or the wholesale slaughter of innocent Moslem children by Gendrey de Bouillon and the holy Crusaders?

Enter: the baby!

Accompanied by his faithful stork, the Bitner baby arrived this morning. There was a great deal of rushing around, but things have quieted down now, and advice is pouring in!

Counselors, well-meaning and many, have arisen: "I used this talcum and that soap," "those bottles are best," and "Blank's have the best carriages." But behind these advices looms the most practical, most modern and most economical counselor of them all: advertising.

Advertising will tell Mrs. Bitner not only which talcum, which blankets, which carriages are best, but it will also give her many helpful hints on keeping her baby healthy and happy. It will suggest toys for his busy hands, shoes for his scampering feet, clothes and foods for his sturdy body, as well as books to set his eager mind to work. And, as the years go by, Mrs. Bitner will keep young, and look young too. For advertising will help her solve one of the greatest economic problems of her home—buying the best for her family at the best prices.

Read the advertisements. They carry a wealth of sound advice to people who are creating homes

Enter: the baby!

Accompanied by his faithful stork, the Bitner baby arrived this morning. There was a great deal of rushing around, but things have quieted down now, and advice is pouring in!

Counselors, well-meaning and many, have arisen: "I used this talcum and that soap," "those bottles are best," and "Blank's have the best carriages." But behind these advices looms the most practical, most modern and most economical counselor of them all: advertising.

Advertising will tell Mrs. Bitner not only which talcum, which blankets, which carriages are best, but it will also give her many helpful hints on keeping her baby healthy and happy. It will suggest toys for his busy hands, shoes for his scampering feet, clothes and foods for his sturdy body, as well as books to set his eager mind to work. And, as the years go by, Mrs. Bitner will keep young, and look young too. For advertising will help her solve one of the greatest economic problems of her home—buying the best for her family at the best prices.

Read the advertisements. They carry a wealth of sound advice to people who are creating homes

YALE'S TRYING TEST, MINUS STAR, AGAINST PRINCETON

BRUCE CALDWELL INELIGIBLE ON EVE OF GAME

PLAYED TWO GAMES FOOTBALL AS FRESHMAN AT BROWN FOUR YEARS AGO

YALE WILL FEEL HIS ABSENCE IN SATURDAY'S GAME AGAINST TIGER

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—Yale today faced the prospects of a trying football test against Princeton minus the services of Bruce Caldwell, back-field star.

Declared ineligible practically on eve of the game which promised to mark the climax of his brilliant gridiron career, Caldwell had disappeared early today, while his coach, his teammates and his college rallied to the one idea:

"Beat Princeton!"
Sympathy for the crack half-back who was found ineligible because he was shown to have played two games of football while a freshman at Brown four years ago, was mingled with determination to defeat the Tigers Saturday regardless of the loss of Caldwell.

Yale will feel Caldwell's absence in Saturday's game against the Tiger.

It was only a few hours after a Providence newspaper proved that Caldwell had played football as a Brown freshman four years ago, that the Yale Athletic Association announced his debarment.

Bruce was Yale's brightest football star, a triple-threat man counted upon to carry the attack against Princeton Saturday. The Eli eleven, stunned at first by the blow, was encouraged by a gigantic student rally late last night to carry on and win.

Bud Charlesworth, Yale center, and candidate for All-American honors, who is one of Caldwell's closest buddies, was more concerned over Bruce than over the loss to the Yale team.

"I and all on the team feel sorry for Bruce," Charlesworth said. "Gee, but it's a tough break for him. His loss hurts the team, but we are going to fight that much harder to win."

The Yale News printed today an editorial under the caption "The Letter of the Law."

"In college sport Yale recognizes as her first duty complete adherence in letter and in spirit to all mutual agreements," it said.

"When the test comes as it did yesterday with the disclosure of obscure minutiae affecting eligibility we gladly cut off our good right arm and apologize to past opponents for any harm it may have done them."

"But in the broadest interpretation of the rule of gentlemanly conduct we cannot excuse this Shylock for waiting until now to demand his pound of flesh. What but the basest motives of personal bitterness could prompt a man to withhold his hoarded evidence until the eve of the realization of every boy's fondest dream?"

"It is such misguided philanthropy arising from overemphasis that contaminates college athletics today. What difference does it make whether a man has played football three or twenty years as long as he does it for pure love of the sport?"

"In principle we welcome the disclosure. It is only its skillful timing at the eleventh hour before a contest between two of the oldest and most respected colleges of the country that we deplore."

The rule under which Caldwell was declared ineligible is a dual agreement with Princeton and Harvard, which went into effect in 1923. It debars any transfer student from representing Yale against Princeton or Harvard in any sport in which he represented his former college. Caldwell played with the Brown freshmen against the Dartmouth freshmen on November 2, 1923, and against the Harvard freshmen on November 16, 1923. The freshmen won from Harvard, 19 to 0, but lost to Dartmouth, 14 to 0.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton regrets that Bruce Caldwell may not play in Saturday's game, but congratulates the Yale authorities upon their prompt action.

This was the word from athletic officials at Princeton today, when informed of the Eli star's ineligibility.

The case of Herb Treat, a famous Tiger tackle, who was found ineligible under similar circumstances, was recalled, and while the suggestion that Yale be urged to use Caldwell found favor in some quarters, it was generally recognized that the authorities at New Haven had adopted the only possible course.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 9.—Harvard considers the Caldwell case one for Yale to deal with as it sees fit.

B. H. S. GRIDDERS PREPARE FOR BATTLE WITH C-I.

ON THE SIDELINES

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, Minn.—The important struggle with Michigan a week from next Saturday is the greatest concern of Minnesota coaches. It is expected that the team will have little trouble defeating Drake next Saturday.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Hampered by cold weather, the Michigan football squad is undergoing special practice in offensive formations, designed for use against the Navy next Saturday. The regulars were to be used on the defensive against Navy plays today.

Madison, Wis.—Defense against passes has been stressed in the Wisconsin football camp this week. Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite also plans to map a new offense for his team to use against the Hawkeyes.

Iowa City, Ia.—Coach Burt Ingwersen continues to experiment with his line but so far has made no definite changes. Defensive measures to be used against Wisconsin have occupied most of the Hawkeyes' time this week.

Lafayette, Ind.—Only three members of the Purdue team are now on the hospital list—Hutton and Dreyer, ends, and Grecus, guard. Coach Jimmy Phelan expects little opposition from Franklin Saturday.

Bloomington, Ind.—Loss of three linemen is considerably hampering Coach Pat Page in his Indiana football practices. Matthew, guard; Weaver, end, and Shields, tackle, are the men suffering from injuries.

Evanston, Ill.—Northwestern's hopes for victory against Indiana on Saturday have been considerably brightened by the return to the line-up of Tiny Lewis, backfield star. Five of the regulars, however, are still on the disabled list.

Chicago—Captain Ken Rouse, hurt in last Saturday's game, may be back in the Chicago line-up against Illinois Saturday. Coach Stagg is spending most of his time on offensive practice.

WIFE OF PUGILIST REPORTED DYING

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Bud Taylor, world's bantamweight champion, left here early today in a Western Air Express airplane en route to Chicago on his way to Terre Haute, Ind., where his wife is reported dying.

News of Mrs. Taylor's serious illness was given the bantam king as he stepped from the fight ring last night at the Olympic auditorium after winning a hard 10-round decision from Johnny Farr. The title was not involved.

FILIPINO LEGISLATURE IN FINAL SESSION

Manila, P. I., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Filipino legislature entered its final session today with an atmosphere of exceptional harmony between Acting Governor-General Gilmore and the Filipino leaders, strengthened by cheering reports from Washington of harmony between the Philippines commission and the state department.

Commenting upon United Press dispatches from Washington indicating that an agreement had been reached, the Philippines Herald said:

"America was in a position to take all and give nothing. It is a credit to America's high mindedness that satisfactory understanding has been reached."

NEWSPAPERS BARRED FROM MENTIONING NAME OF CAROL

Vienna, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Under a precautionary censorship which has been restored in Rumania, newspapers are forbidden to mention the name of former Crown Prince Carol or to comment on the throne question, according to reports from Bucharest today.

Newspapers also have been forbidden to print speeches by M. Manolescu or his defense attorneys during his approaching trial. Manolescu recently was arrested at the frontier while carrying letters to prominent Rumanians from Carol.

Publishers will make a formal protest, the reports state.

"Bill" Bingham, director of athletics here, said today.

"We never would have protested the playing of Caldwell, nor would we have brought up the matter," he added. "Whatever Yale decides is perfectly acceptable to us."

CLAIM COLLEGE FOOTBALL TO BENEFIT FROM CASE

CALDWELL, YALE'S STAR HALF-BACK, BARRED FROM GAME

PRINCETON AND HARVARD MEN EXPRESS REGRET AT INCIDENT

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Nov. 9.—College football is bound to benefit by the barring of Bruce Caldwell, Yale's star half-back, from further participation in the gridiron game.

Around the Yale club in this city, and wherever Yale men gathered, they were saying:

"It's a shame it had to happen at this time, but it was the only thing to do."

Princeton and Harvard men, too, were expressing regret that Caldwell should be thus suddenly deprived of the opportunity to play in the concluding games of the season, but second thoughts were all of congratulations for Yale upon the prompt and unequivocal action of its athletic authorities.

Bruce Caldwell, most versatile of Eli athletes, and the man most depended upon for victory over Princeton next Saturday, was declared ineligible last night following disclosure of the fact that he had played football as a freshman at Brown university four years ago.

The first question that arose in every mind was one made famous by a black-face vaudevillian:

"Why bring that up?"

Possibly the source of the inspiration which led a Providence, R. I., newspaper to disclose the facts on the eve of the all-important Princeton game never will be known.

The fact remains that once Yale authorities were apprised of the circumstances they lost no time in declaring Caldwell ineligible.

"Yes," agreed Caldwell, stunned by the blow, "I played as a freshman at Brown, but I didn't know that made me ineligible."

Yale authorities, apparently, were taken entirely by surprise by the disclosure.

Neither Harvard nor Princeton would have protested the playing of Caldwell, chairmen of athletics at those universities asserted today, under the tri-partite "transfer" agreement, each college of the erstwhile

"Big Three" is left to decide its own questions of eligibility.
The fact that Yale did not hesitate to find its foremost football player ineligible is bound to have a salutary effect upon the game. It may silence a bit of criticism directed towards the "commercialism" of the gridiron game.

Yale's action is not without precedent. A few years back, Princeton did not hesitate to declare Herbert Treat, one of its greatest tackles, ineligible because he had played nine minutes of football at another institution before transferring to Princeton.

The barring of Bruce Caldwell is somewhat of a parallel in the barring of Earl Sande from the turf. In each case, the action seemed severe because of the splendid character of the man affected. In each case, the action was technically justified. And in each case, the effect may be so beneficial and far-reaching that the suffering of the individual will be insignificant by comparison.

Speed's Surest Guerdon

If one tries to "get there" too rapidly he is likely to come to a great many things in a hurry, but the one he is surest to reach quickly is grief.

London.—Mrs. Sarah Collins, a former waitress at Buckingham Palace, died here aged 106. On her last birthday, Mrs. Collins attributed her long life to hard work and beer.

Troy, N. Y.—"Say, officer, my name is Peters. I'm from Buffalo and I've been drunk for the past eight weeks. I want to be arrested." The man, his eyes badly smashed and his face cut, was obliged.

Winnabago, N. Y.—A large buck dashed across the Plattsburg road near here and collided with an automobile. The fender of the car was crushed but the deer was uninjured.

East Greenbush, N. Y.—J. W. Goewey has cast his 71st vote. He went to the polls for the first time in 1851 and since that time has cast 70 more votes, all in the same station.

Betroit.—Tony Maiullo, attorney and defeated candidate for mayor, received two votes in his own precinct. He is conducting an investigation, he said today, to determine whether his wife or his chauffeur reneged on him.

FINAL CONFERENCE CLASH ON CROSBY GROUNDS FRIDAY

WIN WILL MEAN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE; TEAM IN FAIRLY GOOD SHAPE

SLIPPERY FIELD WILL HANDICAP LOCAL WARRIORS IN AIR ATTACK

The Brainerd high school stalwarts are rounding into shape for the greatest test of the season Friday afternoon when they clash with Crosby-Ironton in a game that will decide the district championship.

Coach Kasch's men know the team they are up against, and know of the strength and determination of that team. To win from the range boys will be a struggle and a hard one at that. The game has all the earmarks of the classic of this district. Brainerd through its defeat at the hands of the C-I boys here will be fighting uphill. Breaks will undoubtedly decide the game. A fumble recovered by the opponents, intercepted passes for long runs and completed passes for touchdowns will undoubtedly have their part in the encounter.

The weather conditions certainly are against the local boys. With a slippery field it will mean that the passing game will be treacherous. In that case a line smashing game will result, with the bigger and better men and faster runners and more clever blockers coming out triumphant.

The local team is practicing harder than they have ever done before this week to be ready to meet the Crosby boys. Each boy carries the confidence within him that the B. H. S. will not falter in their attempts to reach the top of the conference. It will be the last game of the season. The game will start at 3 P. M. on the Crosby field.

Coach Kasch today made the following statement regarding his team: "I am not satisfied with the snow on the ground for it will hinder Brainerd considerably in their style of play. The men are in fairly good shape although the real extent of the injuries will not be known until tomorrow. If one or two men can heal their injuries the team will be in good shape."

The game will close a successful football season for Brainerd. The local team has won five games and lost one.

DETERMINE STATUS OF SENATE COMMITTEES

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today upheld Federal Judge Thompson in his dismissal of the suit of the Reed senatorial elections investigating committee. The committee sought a ruling on the status of senate standing committees, after adjournment of the congress creating them.

The opinion, concurred in by Federal Judges Bufington, Wooley, and Davis, held, with the lower court, that the status of senate committees was without the jurisdiction of federal courts and a question for determination by the senate itself.

LOSS IN PRODUCTION OF COTTON REPORTED

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—A production of 12,842,000 bales of cotton compared with 17,977,000 bales last year was forecast by the agriculture department today.

Upon the 49,526,000 acres for harvest the crop is expected to yield approximately 151.2 pounds of lint cotton per acre, compared with 182.5 pounds in 1926.

Census reports made public simultaneously showed 9,925,795 running bales, counting round as half bales, gained from the crop of 1927 prior to Nov. 1, compared with 11,253,873 for 1926.

DIES FROM ACCIDENTAL GAS POISONING

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Clyde Andres, Northern Pacific railroad passenger conductor is dead today from accidental gas poisoning. He started to cook a steak at his home last night, and sat at nearby table reading a newspaper. The flame under the steak was extinguished. His lifeless body was found by his landlady early today.

Heated Argument

"Can Ed Bishop hug?" exclaimed Zarfa. "Why, the other night he hugged me so tight my floating ribs ran aground!"

"That's nothing," retorted Elizabeth M. "When Bob came back from the Green Valley camp he hugged me so tight I'm black and blue from the beating of his heart!"

EXPLAINED AT LAST

She—Besides his great work as an inventor, Thomas Edison also raised a son.

He—That explains then how he learned to do with only four hours sleep.

On the Level

The downward path, we've e'er been shown,
But leadeth to the devil.
Yet you may be a rolling stone
And still be on the level.

The Breaking Point

The doctor had taken the temperature of the stockbroker who lay seriously ill.

"It has gone up to 104," he announced in a solemn voice.

"Gone up to 104!" shouted the stockbroker. "Then sell out, man, sell out!"

Vital

"I'm all in the dark about how these bills are to be paid," said Mr. Hardup to his wife.

"Well, Henry," she said, as she pulled out a green one and laid it on the top of the pile, "you will be if you don't pay that one, for it's the gas bill."

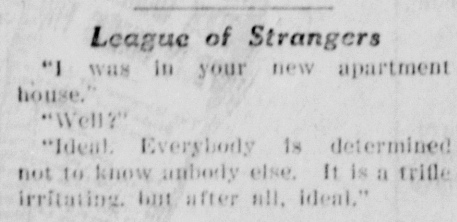

Not Trustworthy

Mrs. Bizzy—I had to let the new maid go. She neglected the children when I attended my club meetings.

Mrs. Milde—is that so?

Mrs. Bizzy—Yes. Positively, she couldn't have thought less of them if they were her own!

OUT OF SIGHT

"Your wife manages to make your money go far you say?"

"Yes, out of sight."

Soon Forgotten

Lives of heroes all remind us
How the fickle people change—
Then belated, now forgotten,
As, for instance, Harold Grange.

League of Strangers

"I was in your new apartment house."

"Well?"

"Ideal. Everybody is determined not to know anybody else. It is a trifle irritating, but after all, ideal."

YALE'S TRYING TEST, MINUS STAR, AGAINST PRINCETON

BRUCE CALDWELL INELIGIBLE ON EVE OF GAME

CLAIM COLLEGE FOOTBALL TO BENEFIT FROM CASE

CALDWELL, YALE'S STAR HALF-BACK, BARRED FROM GAME

PRINCETON AND HARVARD MEN EXPRESS REGRET AT INCIDENT

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Nov. 9.—College football is bound to benefit by the barring of Bruce Caldwell, Yale's star half-back, from further participation in the gridiron game.

Around the Yale club in this city, and wherever Yale men gathered, they were saying:

"It's a shame it had to happen at this time, but it was the only thing to do."

Princeton and Harvard men, too, were expressing regret that Caldwell should be thus suddenly deprived of the opportunity to play in the concluding games of the season, but second thoughts were all of congratulations for Yale upon the prompt and unequivocal action of its athletic authorities.

"Yes," agreed Caldwell, stunned by the blow, "I played as a freshman at Brown, but I didn't know that made me ineligible."

Yale authorities, apparently, were taken entirely by surprise by the disclosure.

Neither Harvard nor Princeton would have protested the playing of Caldwell, chairman of athletics at those universities asserted today, under the tri-partite "transfer" agreement, each college of the erstwhile

"Big Three" is left to decide its own questions of eligibility.

The fact that Yale did not hesitate to find its foremost football player ineligible is bound to have a salutary effect upon the game. It may silence a bit of criticism directed towards the "commercialism" of the gridiron game.

Yale's action is not without precedent. A few years back, Princeton did not hesitate to declare Herbert Treat, one of its greatest tackles, ineligible because he had played nine minutes of football at another institution before transferring to Princeton.

The barring of Bruce Caldwell has somewhat of a parallel in the barring of Earl Sande from the turf. In each case, the action seemed severe because of the splendid character of the man affected. In each case, the action was technically justified. And in each case, the effect may be so beneficial and far-reaching that the suffering of the individual will be insignificant by comparison.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

TEX RICKARD, the old "I Cash Canilflower" man, is not particularly enthused over Gene Tunney's proposal to defend the heavyweight championship in two outdoor fights during 1928.

The promoter is of the opinion that once a year is quite often enough for heavyweight championship fights.

"It takes six months to get ready for one of them affairs," said Tex the other day.

If Rickard really intends to build a suitable outdoor arena in the vicinity of New York City, it is obvious that Gene Tunney will do no fighting before September. The arena couldn't be finished before that time.

Gene sent word to me last month that he would like two outdoor bouts in defense of his title. He suggested July 4 and the latter part of September. Yes, anxious reader, he counts upon winning the first one—and says it won't be a long count, either.

But Tex Rickard will not permit Tunney to fight elsewhere than in the largest available arena, so it's quite likely that the champion will spend a Safe and Same Fourth.

It would be entirely against all the promoter's business principles to risk holding a heavyweight championship fight in a ball park or other limited arena in July, while going ahead and preparing a bigger and better arena for a second title fight a couple of months later.

Nay, nay, Pauline!

For one thing, Gene Tunney might sit in the resin a second or two too long this time, in which case his conqueror most certainly would take it on the lam for the nearest vaudeville agency—and where would the SECOND of the summer's two championship fights be then?

No, Rickard is right. Once a year is at least often enough to watch Gene Tunney defend his championship.

It is interesting to learn that Tunney considers Tom Heeney, the rugged New Zealander, best of the heavyweight contenders next to Dempsey.

Tom is a stout fellow. We will see him in action against Jack Sharkey a fortnight hence, and then we will know more about his championship qualifications.

For one reason, if for no other, we would like to see Heeney win his way through the elimination tournament and face Tunney in a battle for the heavyweight championship.

FINAL CONFERENCE CLASH ON CROSBY GROUNDS FRIDAY

WIN WILL MEAN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE; TEAM IN FAIRLY GOOD SHAPE

SLIPPERY FIELD WILL HANDICAP LOCAL WARRIORS IN AIR ATTACK

The Brainerd high school stalwarts are rounding into shape for the greatest test of the season Friday afternoon when they clash with Crosby-Ironton in a game that will decide the district championship.

Coach Kasch's men know the team they are up against, and know of the strength and determination of that team. To win from the range boys will be a struggle and a hard one at that. The game has all the earmarks of the classic of this district. Brainerd through its defeat at the hands of the C-I boys here will be fighting uphill. Breaks will undoubtedly decide the game. A fumble recovered by the opponents, intercepted passes for long runs and completed passes for touchdowns will undoubtedly have their part in the encounter.

The weather conditions certainly are against the local boys. With a slippery field it will mean that the passing game will be treacherous. In that case a line smashing game will result, with the bigger and better men and faster runners and more clever blockers coming out triumphant.

The local team is practicing harder than they have ever done before this week to be ready to meet the Crosby boys. Each boy carries the confidence within him that the B. H. S. will not falter in their attempts to reach the top of the conference. It will be the last game of the season. The game will start at 3 P. M. on the Crosby field.

Coach Kasch today made the following statement regarding his team: "I am not satisfied with the snow on the ground for it will hinder Brainerd considerably in their style of play. The men are in fairly good shape although the real extent of the injuries will not be known until tomorrow. If one or two men can heal their injuries the team will be in good shape."

The game will close a successful football season for Brainerd. The local team has won five games and lost one.

DETERMINE STATUS OF SENATE COMMITTEES

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today upheld Federal Judge Thompson in his dismissal of the suit of the Reed senatorial elections investigating committee. The committee sought a ruling on the status of senate standing committees, after adjournment of the congress creating them.

The opinion, concurred in by Federal Judges Bufington, Woolley, and Davis, held, with the lower court, that the status of senate committees was without the jurisdiction of federal courts and a question for determination by the senate itself.

LOSS IN PRODUCTION OF COTTON REPORTED

Washington, Nov. 9.—(UP)—A production of 12,812,000 bales of cotton compared with 17,977,000 bales last year was forecast by the agriculture department today.

Upon the 49,626,000 acres for harvest the crop is expected to yield approximately 151.2 pounds of lint cotton per acre, compared with 182.6 pounds in 1926.

Census reports made public simultaneously showed 9,925,795 running bales, counting round as half bales, ginned from the crop of 1927 prior to Nov. 1, compared with 11,253,873 for 1926.

DIES FROM ACCIDENTAL GAS POISONING

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Clyde Andres, Northern Pacific railroad passenger conductor is dead today from accidental gas poisoning. He started to cook a steak at his home last night, and sat at nearby table reading a newspaper. The flame under the steak was extinguished. His lifeless body was found by his landlady early today.

Heated Argument

"Can Ed Bishop hug?" exclaimed Zarita. "Why, the other night he hugged me so tight my floating ribs ran aground!"

"That's nothing," retorted Elizabeth M. "When Bob came back from the Green Valley camp he hugged me so tight I'm black and blue from the beating of his heart!"

EXPLAINED AT LAST

She—Besides his great work as an inventor, Thomas Edison also raised a son.

He—That explains then how he learned to do with only four hours sleep.

On the Level

The downward path, we've e'er been shown,
But leadeth to the devil.
Yet you may be a rolling stone
And still be on the level.

The Breaking Point

The doctor had taken the temperature of the stockbroker who lay seriously ill.

"It has gone up to 104," he announced in a solemn voice.

"Gone up to 104!" shouted the stockbroker. "Then sell out, man, sell out!"

Vital

"I'm all in the dark about how these bills are to be paid," said Mr. Hardup to his wife.

"Well, Henry," she said, as she pulled out a green one and laid it on the top of the pile, "you will be if you don't pay that one, for it's the gas bill."

Not Trustworthy

Mrs. Bizzy—I had to let the new maid go. She neglected the children when I attended my club meetings.

Mrs. Milde—Is that so?

Mrs. Bizzy—Yes. Positively, she couldn't have thought less of them if they were her own!

OUT OF SIGHT

"Your wife manages to make your money go far you say?"

"Yes, out of sight."

Soon Forgotten

Lives of heroes all remind us
How the little people change—
Then belauded, now forgotten,
As, for instance, Harold Grange.

League of Strangers

"I was in your new apartment house."

"Well?"

"Ideal. Everybody is determined not to know anybody else. It is a trifle irritating, but after all, ideal."

MAYOR THOMPSON IN THREE DAY SHOW AT WASHINGTON

TAKES STAGE BEFORE HOUSE
FLOOD CONTROL
COMMITTEE

OPENS EYES OF DIGNIFIED
CAPITAL OF THE NATION

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Nov. 9.—"Big Bill" Thompson, mayor of Chicago, who took the stage again today before the house flood control committee, has put on a three-day show here that has opened the eyes of the dignified capital, which has no mayor.

Government clerks have gaped at the spectacle. Politicians, who necessarily know "home-town atmosphere" better than anyone else, are beginning to believe "Big Bill" is up to something that has to do with a national convention not many months away.

His publicity is nothing if not colorful.

Washington, which has not yet become accustomed to calling the president "Cal" along with the rest of the country, has become thoroughly accustomed to "Bill".

"Hello, Bill" has been the slogan around here for three days now.

A heavily-proportioned man, wearing a wide hat and a black suit with a sizable stripe, appears on the scene—it may be at his hotel or at the capitol.

"Hello, Bill" is the greeting he gets.

His clique knows its business. Every time his name is mentioned in the huge caucus room in the house office building—and that is often—there is a din of applause. The delegation of 1,500 which came here with him shouts for him, and "talks him up." His aides and lieutenants among them hover about, and dash here and there, faithful to his every whim.

They all wear official badges carrying the slogan "America first," and a sailor and police quartette keep this slogan continually in the air with a song about "America first, last and always."

Thompson has become a personage here. Crowds gather in the caucus room to get a glimpse of him. One woman took two small children to the caucus room yesterday, expecting "Big Bill" was to appear. She sat around for two hours, and then left.

Now the Federal Radio commission is asked to give the station from which Thompson's cohorts broadcast a better arrangement so that his "America first" pronouncements may reach a larger audience.

Certain republicans, it is known, are shaking their heads, puzzled.

They wonder just how often they may hear that familiar "Hello, Bill" at the convention next June.

HAWK AIRPLANE AND BOMBER IN COLLISION

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 9.—(UP)—One naval aviator was killed and three occupants of an army bomber from Langley field landed safely in parachutes when a Curtiss Hawk airplane and the bomber collided almost directly over Norfolk Country club today.

Lieut. Addison Nelson, attached to the naval air station, alone in the Curtiss Hawk, was killed. His machine dropped into the Lafayette river after the crash.

Lieut. B. H. Stewart, pilot of the Keystone light bomber No. 5, seeing his machine was out of control, gave orders for two observers to take to the parachutes, and he followed them. All landed safely, two in the water.

Open Fencing Best

High walls or the old-time, fortunately almost obsolete, board fence, shield so thoroughly that they have become a thing of the past.

Fencing of texture permits wide range of vision from without or within that is of great added protective value.

All the advantages to be derived from fencing are achieved easily by the installation of woven-wire fence with steel posts set in concrete. Built high enough, the woven-wire fence is unclimbable. Various types of this fence may be obtained which will harmonize with any style of architecture or landscaping.

Shingles Over Old Walls

By laying stained shingles right over old side walls in brown, gray, or colonial white, you not only improve the appearance and value of your property but you add insulation that means cooler summers and warmer winters.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Lauding Minnesota's new system of taxing forest lands, adopted last fall in the form of a constitutional amendment with a design of encouraging reforestation, George H. DAIRYING IS PAID HIGH TRIBUTE

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT UNIVERSITY FARM FOR JERSEY COW THAT DIED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Minnesota's greatest industry, dairying, was paid high tribute at University Farm late yesterday, when memorial services were conducted for a Jersey cow which died last week.

The cow, Lad's Goldy Y, was for 19 years a favorite at the farm.

Services which were attended by students and faculty were the first of their kind ever to be held in the state, and were held in the same pavilion where year after year the cow was exhibited as a model of perfection.

An enlarged picture of Goldy was presented to the dairy division of the college of agriculture by George Chambers, on behalf of the Block and Bridle club.

Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division, paid tribute to Goldy, lauding her as a cow with personality and character. He said an old graduate of the school, on returning for a visit, asked first about the cow instead of about faculty members and fellow students.

Several letters from Minnesota dairymen, paying tribute to Goldy, were read at the meeting.

Goldy, during her life, produced 91,833 pounds of milk, or an amount 162 times her weight. She was the mother of 13 sons and daughters and the grandmother of 320 animals. Six generations of her descendants are estimated to number 1,500.

SENATOR MARCONI SUFFERING FROM A COMPLETE BREAKDOWN

London, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of radio, is suffering from a complete breakdown, his secretary, P. C. Magrini, told the United Press late today.

Marconi is severely ill, Magrini said. "Two doctors are attending him. They diagnose his illness as a complete breakdown. The suites adjoining his at the Savoy hotel have been vacated to insure silence."

NICOLLET COUNTY BOYS WIN HIGH HONORS AT SHOW

WALTER SCHULTZ, ST. PETER,

GRAND CHAMPION

JESSE E. HANSON, MANKATO,
WINS RESERVE CHAMPIONSHIP WITH SHORTHORN

South St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—To Nicollet county, home of champion corn huskers, was bestowed new honors when two boys, members of the 4-H Junior Livestock club, were announced winners of both grand and junior championships in the baby beef competitions at the tenth Annual Livestock Show.

A black Angus calf shown by Walter Schultz, St. Peter, was named grand champion of the show.

Jesse E. Hanson, of Mankato, was awarded the reserve championship for his showing of a pure bred shorthorn.

The Hereford top honor went to Donald Barber, of Montevideo.

Schultz is 18 years old, and was one of Minnesota's representatives in the dairy cattle judging team, which last month attended the National Dairy Exposition at Memphis.

Owner of the reserve champion, Jesse E. Hanson, is a brother of Bert Hanson, who won the cornhusking championship contest conducted by The Farmer of St. Paul a week ago.

Judging of fat barrows, sheep and poultry with the final selection in each class will take place today.

A dinner for club members at the St. Paul auditorium, where the young club members will be guests of the St. Paul Association is on tonight's program.

Trophies and cups to the owners of prize-winning stock will be presented by Governor Theodore Christianson as a feature of the banquet.

Floris Ranken, Faribault, was awarded first prize in the Poland China lard hog competition at the Junior Livestock Show judging this morning.

FULL GROWN WOLF WAS ADEPT AT CHICKEN HUNTING

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Suspicion of Edina citizens against their neighbors, when chicken roosts would be raided at night, and which brought on several heated arguments and threats of arrest was allayed today when a full grown wolf, tracked in the snow, was shot and killed. Now the neighbors who a week ago were casting hostile glances are humoring themselves with the customary "I told you so."

LINER AND SOUND STEAMER COLLIDE

New York, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The French liner Degrasse, outward bound for Havre, and the Sound steamer Pequannock, owned by the New England Steamship line, collided in New York harbor today.

Neither ship was seriously damaged. After a 15 minute delay the Degrasse was on its way to France again.

write few lines when angry. The points of violent emphasis will then be seen.

Whenever down strokes are made heavier than usual, and heavier than the rest of the writing, the writer will gain his end sometimes with force. T-bars which descend to the right with a pronounced pressure indicate a mind capable of much anger.

A very narrow margin and words cramped and close together written in a heavy style showing uneven pressure, written in an untidy way, show a type of mind that puts personal interests first. Sharply pointed letters, and dagger-thrust t-bars show an inclination to cut with the tongue.

Cruelty shows in the writing as though the writer was shouting at the top of his voice.

Services which were attended by students and faculty were the first of their kind ever to be held in the state, and were held in the same pavilion where year after year the cow was exhibited as a model of perfection.

An enlarged picture of Goldy was presented to the dairy division of the college of agriculture by George Chambers, on behalf of the Block and Bridle Club.

Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division, paid tribute to Goldy, lauding her as a cow with personality and character. He said an "old graduate of the school, on returning for a visit, asked first about the cow instead of about faculty members and fellow students.

Several letters from Minnesota dairymen, paying tribute to Goldy, were read at the meeting.

Goldy, during her life, produced 91,833 pounds of milk, or an amount 192 times her weight. She was the mother of 13 sons and daughters and the grandmother of 320 animals. Six generations of her descendants are estimated to number 1,500.

SENATOR MARCONI
SUFFERING FROM A COMPLETE BREAKDOWN

London, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of radio, is suffering from a complete breakdown, his secretary, P. C. Magrini, told the United Press late today.

Marconi is severely ill, Magrini said. "Two doctors are attending him. They diagnose his illness as a complete breakdown. The suites adjoining his at the Savoy hotel have been vacated to insure silence."

NICOLLET COUNTY
BOYS WIN HIGH
HONORS AT SHOW

WALTER SCHULTZ, ST. PETER,
HAS BLACK ANGUS CALF,
GRAND CHAMPION

JESSE E. HANSON, MANKATO,
WINS RESERVE CHAMPIONSHIP WITH SHORTHORN

South St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—To Nicollet county, home of champion corn huskers, was bestowed new honors when two boys, members of the 4-H Junior Livestock club, were announced winners of both grand and junior championships in the baby beef competitions at the tenth Annual Livestock Show.

A black Angus calf shown by Walter Schultz, St. Peter, was named grand champion of the show.

Jesse E. Hanson, of Mankato, was awarded the reserve championship for his showing of a pure bred shorthorn.

The heretofore top honor went to Donald Barber, of Montevideo.

Schultz is 18 years old, and was one of Minnesota's representatives in the dairy cattle judging team, which last month attended the National Dairy Exposition at Memphis.

Owner of the reserve champion, Jesse E. Hanson, is a brother of Bert Hanson, who won the cornhusking championship contest conducted by The Farmer of St. Paul a week ago.

Judging of fat barrows, sheep and poultry with the final selection in each class will take place today.

A dinner for club members at the St. Paul auditorium, where the young club members will be guests of the St. Paul Association is on tonight's program.

Trophies and cups to the owners of prize-winning stock will be presented by Governor Theodore Christianson as a feature of the banquet.

Florin Ranken, Faribault, was awarded first prize in the Poland China hard hog competition at the Junior Livestock Show judging this morning.

FULL GROWN WOLF WAS ADEPT AT
CHICKEN HUNTING

Minneapolis, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Suspicion of Edina citizens against their neighbors, when chicken roosts would be raided at night, and which brought on several heated arguments and threats of arrest was allayed today when a full grown wolf, tracked in the snow, was shot and killed. Now the neighbors who a week ago were casting hostile glances are humoring themselves with the customary "I told you so."

LINER AND SOUND
STEAMER COLLIDE

New York, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The French liner Degrasse, outward bound for Havre, and the Sound steamer Pequannock, owned by the New England Steamship line, collided in New York harbor today.

Neither ship was seriously damaged. After a 15 minute delay the Degrasse was on its way to France again.

write few lines when angry. The points of violent emphasis will then be seen.

Whenever down strokes are made heavier than usual, and heavier than the rest of the writing, the writer will gain his end sometimes with force. T bars which descend to the right with a pronounced pressure indicate a mind capable of much anger.

A very narrow margin and words cramped and close together written in a heavy style showing uneven pressure, written in an untidy way, show a type of mind that puts personal interests first. Sharply pointed letters, and dagger-thrust t bars show an inclination to cut with the tongue.

Cruelty shows in the writing as though the writer was shouting at the top of his voice.

N. P. OFFICIALS VISIT SHOPS HERE

Howard Elliott, of New York, Chairman of Northern Pacific Railway, here today

ON INSPECTION TOUR

Other Officials Include Charles E. Perkins, F. E. Williamson, and T. H. Lantry

Howard Elliott, of New York, chairman of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, was a visitor in Brainerd today. He has been in St. Paul for the past two weeks attending the hearings on the application for unifying the operations of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways, and before returning to his office in New York he is making an inspection of the properties in Minnesota and Canada. With other officers of the company he left St. Paul Tuesday morning, going to the head-of-the-Lakes, where the party looked over the ore dock at Superior and the roundhouse and freight and passenger terminals at Duluth. Leaving Duluth at 2:30 P. M. Tuesday the party came to Brainerd, where they arrived at 8 P. M. Tuesday evening. After going through the shops on Wednesday morning, the party will leave here for a trip over the M. & I. going thence to Winnipeg and returning to St. Paul over the Red River branch of the Northern Pacific on Thursday.

Mr. Elliott was president of the Northern Pacific from 1903 to 1913, and during that time was a frequent visitor in Brainerd. He was interested in learning about the dairy development in Crow Wing county. Mr. Elliott stated that about 50 percent of the grain crop on the east end of the line had been carried to terminal points and that there would still be considerable grain to move between now and the end of the year. With a very satisfactory rain crop it is expected that the buying power of the grain country will begin to be felt in the eastern markets and indications already point to a somewhat improved condition in general business during the fall and winter months.

Con O'Brien, George D. LaBar and M. E. Ryan called on Mr. Elliott during the evening. Mr. Elliott was accompanied on his trip by Charles E. Perkins, of Burlington, Iowa, a director of the Northern Pacific Railway Company. The other members of the party are F. E. Williamson, vice president in charge of operations; T. H. Lantry, general manager; W. H. Strachan, general superintendent; R. W. Clark, general traffic manager; E. E. Nelson, assistant passenger traffic manager; G. F. Endicott, mechanical engineer; Lowry Smith, office engineer; and W. H. Gemell, president, M. & I. Railway Co., O. F. Ohlson, superintendent at Duluth, and N. P. White, master mechanic. Roadmaster Smith came with the train from Duluth to Brainerd, which was in charge of Conductor Robert Wilson and Engineer Klostad.

The party accompanied by W. H. Gemell and Carl Zapffe, left by special train on the Minnesota and International this morning for International Falls, running thence to Winnipeg and from there through to St. Paul, reaching St. Paul Thursday evening. Messrs. Gemell and Zapffe will return to Brainerd Thursday night.

DAGGETT BROOK

Delmar Hilderbrand and Ed. Rain have returned from Bismarck, N. D., where they have been working this fall.

J. T. Cronquist was a Brainerd visitor one day last week.

The friends of Mr. Freeman will be glad to hear that he is improving in health after being sick for a few weeks. He is at his daughter home now.

Mrs. Albert Anderson and children have moved on to the Heitz farm.

Ben Holsapple called at his brother Seward's home Monday night.

Miss Mildred Vanderwerker was home for the week end from high school in Brainerd.

POTATO SHIPMENTS SHOW GOOD SEASON

1927 Crop Expected to Exceed That of Last Year by 60 Percent

CROP BEING REMOVED

Fifty Two Cars of Potatoes Have Been Loaded Out of City in Six Weeks

The potato shipments for this season have a very promising outlook. Fifty-two cars of potatoes have been loaded out of Brainerd in the past six weeks. This compares very favorably with the whole shipping season of 1926, which includes the months of September 1926 to May 1927, when the total shipment of sixty cars were shipped out of Brainerd.

The 1927 crop is expected to exceed that of last year by at least fifty or sixty percent. There are indications that more potatoes will be shipped out of Brainerd this season than in any previous season in the history of Brainerd. Points north on the M. & I. railway have been averaging from eight to ten cars of potatoes into Brainerd per day. Crow Wing, Barrows, Baxter, Lennox and Sylvan, star stations for which the Brainerd offices bill, are maintaining the same high averages as Brainerd.

It has been reported that a greater acreage of potatoes were planted this past season than ever before in this vicinity and although a large portion has been shipped out there still remains the majority of the crop to be removed.

Jury Returns Verdict in the Case of John and Roy Bryant, Jenkins, Last Evening

SENTENCE IMPOSED LATER

Wilbur Wolford Pleads Guilty to Imbezzlement; Liquor Law Violator Sentenced

Deliberating three hours and forty-five minutes, the jury last night at 8:45 o'clock returned a verdict in the case of Roy Bryant and John Bryant, Jenkins, charged with assault in the second degree upon Hjalmer Olson, village marshal of Jenkins at a dance recently.

Presiding Judge Bert Fessler announced he would impose sentence later.

Frank Crummit faced trial for the same offense today in district court. His case will be followed by the fourth member of the party, Howard Robideau, of Pine River.

Wilbur Frederick Wolford, originally charged with forgery of township funds pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement of funds replacing the other charge. Sentence was deferred to a later date.

Thomas Bly, Pequot, pleaded guilty to the charge of sale of liquor and was sentenced to 60 days in jail, a fine of $150 and 60 days additional if the fine is not paid.

District court will adjourn tomorrow evening to be resumed Monday morning.

"Mary's Ankle" Pleasing "Mary's Ankle," presented by Augier Brothers stock company at the Park last evening drew a large audience which was pleased by this sparkling comedy. It was staged in adequate manner, the third act displaying very fine scenery.

Every part was well taken, especially that of the principals John Gaylor as Doctor Hampton, Louise Sherwood as Mary Jane Smith, and Harrison Augier as G. P. Hampton.

There were good vaudeville numbers between acts and the concert orchestra under the direction of Gertrude Mack gave excellent music. Tonight the company presents "Lilac Time."

Interesting Sessions on Program of State Convention in Mill City

The Brainerd high school and some of the grade schools will be closed Thursday and Friday of this week to permit 50 teachers on the Brainerd staff to attend the annual convention of the Minnesota Educational Association at Minneapolis, November 10, 11, and 12.

Teachers who attended the meeting in St. Cloud recently will continue their class work as usual. Where nearly all the teachers in a building are leaving, the remaining may be transferred to some other building to make a full quota in that building. Almost the entire high school staff will attend the meet.

On Friday afternoon all grade rooms will be closed in observance of Armistice Day.

All sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium. The first session will start at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Afternoon addresses will be given by Hughes Mearns, of New York university who will talk on "The Introjected Teacher," and Mary McKimmon, former president of the National Education Association. The Apollo club of Minneapolis with Nina Morgana, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, soloist, will present a concert Thursday evening.

C. H. Barnes, superintendent of St. Louis county schools and president of the Minnesota Education Association will preside at the second session starting at 8 p. m. Friday. The evening will be devoted to an American Legion and Armistice Day program.

Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, Illinois, Douglas Malloch, Chicago, will be the principal speakers Saturday morning. In the afternoon the teachers will witness the Minnesota-Drake game at the Memorial stadium.

Points north on the M. & I. railway have been averaging from eight to ten cars of potatoes into Brainerd per day. Crow Wing, Barrows, Baxter, Lennox and Sylvan, star stations for which the Brainerd offices bill, are maintaining the same high averages as Brainerd.

It has been reported that a greater acreage of potatoes were planted this season than ever before in this vicinity and although a large portion has been shipped out there still remains the majority of the crop to be removed.

TWO FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULT CHARGE

Jury Returns Verdict in the Case of John and Roy Bryant, Jenkins, Last Evening

SENTENCE IMPOSED LATER

Wilbur Wolford Pleads Guilty to Imbezzlement; Liquor Law Violator Sentenced

Deliberating three hours and forty-five minutes, the jury last night at 8:45 o'clock returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Roy Bryant, John Bryant, Jenkins, charged with assault in the second degree upon Hjalmer Olson, village marshal of Jenkins at a dance recently.

Presiding Judge Bert Fessler announced he would impose sentence later.

Frank Crummit faced trial for the same offense today in district court. His case will be followed by the fourth member of the party, Howard Robideau, of Pine River.

Wilbur Frederick Wolford, originally charged with forgery of township funds pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement of funds replacing the other charge. Sentence was deferred to a later date.

Thomas Bly, Pequot, pleaded guilty to the charge of sale of liquor and was sentenced to 60 days in jail, a fine of $150 and 60 days additional if the fine is not paid.

District court will adjourn tomorrow evening to be resumed Monday morning.

"Mary's Ankle" Pleasing
"Mary's Ankle," presented by Augier Brothers stock company at the Park last evening drew a large audience which was pleased by this sparkling comedy. It was staged in adequate manner, the third act displaying very fine scenery.

Every part was well taken, especially that of the principals John Gaylor as Doctor Hampton, Louisa Sherwood as Mary Jane Smith, and Harrison Augier as G. P. Hampton.

There were good vaudeville numbers between acts and the concert orchestra under the direction of Gertrude Mack gave excellent music. Tonight the company presents "Lilac Time."

50 CITY TEACHERS WILL ATTEND M. E. A.

Brainerd High School And Some of Grades to Close Tomorrow and Friday

HALF HOLIDAY FRIDAY

Interesting Sessions on Program of State Convention in Mill City

The Brainerd high school and some of the grade schools will be closed Thursday and Friday of this week to permit 50 teachers on the Brainerd staff to attend the annual convention of the Minnesota Educational Association at Minneapolis, November 10, 11, and 12.

Teachers who attended the meeting in St. Cloud recently will continue their class work as usual. Where nearly all the teachers in a building are leaving, the remaining may be transferred to some other building to make a full quota in that building. Almost the entire high school staff will attend the meet.

On Friday afternoon all grade rooms will be closed in observance of Armistice Day.

All sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium. The first session will start at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Afternoon addresses will be given by Hughes Mearns, of New York university who will talk on "The Introjected Teacher," and Mary McSkimmon, former president of the National Education Association. The Apollo club of Minneapolis with Nina Morgana, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, soloist, will present a concert Thursday evening.

C. H. Barnes, superintendent of St. Louis county schools and president of the Minnesota Education Association will preside at the second session starting at 8 p. m. Friday. The evening will be devoted to an American Legion and Armistice Day program.

Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, Illinois, Douglas Malloch, Chicago, will be the principal speakers Saturday morning. In the afternoon the teachers will witness the Minnesota-Drake game at the Memorial stadium.

SYNOPSIS

The sailing schooner "Sea Sprite" docks at Frisco after a terrible cruise in the Arctic, and her crew are eager for the delights that the town can give. Brady, the mate of the schooner, allows liquor on the boat, and by the time that Hurricane Haley, the skipper, is ashore, most of his crew are drunk. He leaves Brady on the schooner and walks through the docksides to Mother Ward's where he stays in Frisco. He is welcomed and charged triple the value of his room.

Not waiting to empty his sacks, he paid for two weeks' rent in advance for old friend or not Mother Ward took no chances, and with his cap on the back of his head, and hands deep in his trousers pockets, he sauntered out to find what Frisco had to give. He was in no hurry. The feel of the roll of bills in his pocket was comforting and the belt that was around his waist reminded him that while it lasted he could have whatever it could buy, and the thought was cheering.

The last two years had been hell indeed, but now that it was over he almost felt that it had been worth it, because of the savor that it gave to his present pleasures. Two years is a long trip for a sailor. Any man other than the Haley type would turn back and admit failure—but Hurricane was not that type. Once he went after anything, he stopped only when he got it. Twice the men had mutinied, because of low rations, because the eternal snow and ice were driving them mad. But he had subdued them with threats, blows, promises—and kept them at it till his hold was filled.

And now, after these two years of torment, he was going to hear laughing voices again—going to listen to people he knew, going to lay his finger on the very pulse of life, and with his hand tight-

an orange when they felt that way. He even stopped to pat a mongrel dog that sniffed at his legs as he stood on a corner deciding which way to go. By now Hurricane was back in the streets behind the docks. Dark, dirty streets, ill-lit and untidy, packed with a mob of unwashed habitants gathered from the corners of the earth. It was the water front of Frisco. No different from the docksides in the great ports throughout the world, but with this difference to Haley. Where he could be disgusted by the filth and prostitution of Penrynfields and Wapping, Frisco was his home. Each smell and noise reminded him that he was happy.

From beetling tenements came wheezy tunes, ground out on cheap phonographs. At each street corner the same boys and girls were lounging, talking and giggling softly. Down the streets, close to the shadows of the walls, yellow men moved furtively in and out of their narrow alleys, or sometimes more boldly, as with an ogling female on their arm, they walked the open street that the white sailor might see their conquest. Around the cheaper saloons the blacks, the Malays and Lascars hovered and desired, without daring to pounce.

From dim lit bars came snatches of popular songs, accompanied by the strident music of electrical pianos, and above it all rose the blatant music of a Salvation Army band. It was warm and raw—just night among the docks of San Francisco. Hurricane moved along noticing everything and before he knew it he was outside "The Ship," well known among the bars of the Pacific ports. Here was a place where he would be sure to meet plenty of the old gang, and he was not disappointed.

Old Wooden Leg Cribbins, an ex-seaman himself, who had had an unpleasant encounter with a shark in the South Seas, came from behind the bar and greeted him.

He stopped to chat with the little Italian on Clarkson street.

clenched around the money in his pocket, Hurricane felt that the two years had not been in vain.

The bitterness was going. Frisco was going to pay him back, and as he walked along he was smiling broadly. It was wonderful to be back again. He paused for a moment beneath the sign of a saloon, but shook his head. It was too early for any of the old boys to be there now. They would be nearer the docks, and would work up that way as the evening progressed. He was turning to make sure when the swing doors of the saloon parted and a woman, more than three-parts intoxicated, lurched out. A street lamp stood on the corner, and with a determined effort she crossed the pavement and grasped at it. Whether it eluded her, or whether her aim was bad Hurricane did not know, but she missed the post and subsided into the gutter, where she sat and surveyed her feet that had so fragrantly gone back on her. Hurricane grinned. It was no novelty to him, and where pleasure is almost conspicuous by its absence, the user of synthetic aids is hardly censured. "You're a trifle off, ain't you ma'am?" he asked, and as the woman smiled up at him, he bent down and lifted her to her feet.

"Where are you going to?" he asked. The woman looked him over. She was a typical dockside type, and Haley and his ilk were her prey, so putting the only possible construction on his question, she replied, "Anywhere you say, kid, but let's have a drink first."

Hurricane shook his head. "Guess I've got a date, but you can have a drink on me, an' you'd better get away from here before the cops see you." The woman knew her trade. He had money now, but when the harpies of the dance-halls were through with him, it would be her turn to take what was left. She took the bill and murmured an indistinct "Good night."

Haley could not be offended, he was friendly to all. To the shuffling Chinks, he waved a wind-browed hand. He stopped to chat with the little Italian who kept the stand on Clarkson Street. Tony had been there since before Hurricane could remember, and Tony knew him. Knew him in the same way that he knew all the sunburnt men who would give a dollar for Laughing loudly, Hurricane patted him on the back and ordered drinks for the house. Against the bar were many of the regulars replenishing from pewter pit and glass their store of hope and enterprise. Hurricane bought for them all. He was on friendly terms with the whole world. They must all back with him. He peeped into a back room, the door of which was partly closed, and ordered a drink for some hard faced women, who were conversing on their lot in a maudlin way.

"To yer good health," they shouted. "Drink it down and God bless you," shouted Hurricane. This was good, but not good enough. He wanted actual contact with people who could smile at him. He dropped coins in a mechanical piano, and seizing a blonded bar maid round the waist he danced a few steps to the melody of "Watch me, old brown son," that long recognized chanty of the sea. A new visitor gave the bar maid a chance to escape, not that she wanted to much, for Hurricane was a good looking man. A sweet faced little Salvation Army girl entered the saloon and smiling wistfully passed her tambourine among the loungers on the bar.

Haley threw the change from his drinks into the tambourine and walked with the girl to the door. A blind beggar, led by a ragged kid, paused at the door. Haley borrowed some change and gave it to them. He was a little thoughtful when he came back. "Cribbins," he said, "why do they let kids like her see the sort of thing that goes on down here?" Cribbins grinned a bit. "Why, man, by the time that a kid has cut its teeth down here they know all they ever will know, and it's due to those army guys if any of them ever have anything to learn by the time they're twenty." Hurricane frowned, then remembering that tonight was to be a night devoid of worry, he smiled—and ordered more drinks for everyone.

Hurricane was truly at peace with the universe. Cribbins asked him about his trip, and for a few moments the big man was solemn, serious, as he spoke of the days of madness amongst the snow, of the hardships, the cold, but soon he straightened up with a smile. (To be continued)

Evil Is Done Easily

What delight is there in a future life if it is impossible to imagine it to one's self? The description of a struggle between good and evil in a man who is committing, or has just committed, an evil action always seems to be unnatural. Evil is done easily and unconsciously, and only much later does the man become horrified and amazed at what he has done.—Tolstoy.

DAIRY FACTS

PREPARING DAIRY FOR COLD WINTER

"The first thing to do in preparing for winter," says Dr. C. H. Eekles, chief of the dairy division of the University of Minnesota, "is to go over your feed situation. If you have silage on hand and legume hay in the barn it will be easy to fix up a suitable grain mixture. If you have corn and oats or barley you will not need to patronize the feed store unless you have some concentrate high in protein is needed to balance the grain ration, and the amount needed for the winter should be purchased. It never pays to half feed live stock of any kind."

"Do not wait too long in the fall before beginning to house the cows at night and even during the day whenever the weather is bad. I believe that cows suffer more from cold on the average in November than during any other month. The owner likes to keep them out as long as possible to save labor and possibly in some states with the idea of saving feed. A cow compelled to stand outdoors in a cold raw wind or a cold rain is in no condition to make a profit. She will not hold up in milk like in May or June because she is uncomfortable."

"Housing fattening animals and dairy cows is quite a different proposition. The fat animal is well protected from the cold and does not mind it. The cow in milk is not protected by a layer of fat. She is giving off fat in place of putting it on. A barbed-wire fence is mighty poor shelter for a dairy cow either day or night during the winter."

Avoid Breeding Heifer

Before Two Years Old

Experienced dairymen who have been breeding dairy cattle for some time appreciate the damage that is done to heifers if they are bred too young. Premature breeding usually results in undersized animals which have a reduced capacity for milk production. Continued breeding at an early age tends to weaken the vitality and vigor of the herd.

The larger breeds of dairy cattle, like the larger breeds of chickens, require more time to mature than the smaller breeds. This means that Holsteins must be allowed more time to grow than Jerseys. Even the smaller breeds should not be allowed to produce calves before they are two years old if they are to give the best results.

It is generally agreed that Holsteins should be from nineteen to twenty-one months old when bred; Ayrshires should be from eighteen to twenty months; Guernseys from seventeen to nineteen months, and Jerseys from fifteen to seventeen months. This means that the heifers must not be allowed to run with the herd bull, for they will often come in heat many months before this age is reached.

Clean Stables Greatest Factor Against Disease

The greatest factor in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis is declared to be proper cleanliness of dairy barns. It is significant that one of the greatest troubles experienced in British Columbia during the testing for the establishment of a T. B. free area was to get farmers to properly clean up.

"Fortunately," says the Dairy Farmer, "our friend the sun has prodigious curative powers, and will help to kill off the germs of tuberculosis wherever he gets a chance to do so."

The farmers who are advocating open-air conditions for dairy cows have strong supporters in their claim that it is often the expensive coddled animal which develops T. B. and that the disease is comparatively unknown among cattle which run out practically all the time.

To properly keep clean a cow barn is so difficult that it is rarely done, but the development of disease may be prevented by allowing the animals to exercise in the open rather than by coddling them in tight barns which, in fact, have been proved to be among the worst factors in the spread of T. B. among cows.

Ventilating Barn

When building a new barn or remodeling an old one, many factors and problems should be given the very closest consideration. The location of the barn with reference to drainage and its relation to other buildings cannot be given too much attention. The internal arrangement of the barn and the fixtures that are to be used should be designed to save labor. An abundance of light should be provided, because sunlight is a very important factor.

Watch Young Calf

Too often dry pastures, flies and especially insufficient grain and water cause scrawny-looking calves that never develop into average-size cows. The calf should be eating some grain from the time it is three weeks old and at weaning time this should be slightly increased, especially if the pasture is short. If no pasture is available a little alfalfa hay will help materially. With good pasture, grain is not necessary more than two weeks after weaning.

BEST 30 CENTS FOR COLD'S GRIP INFLUENZA

RED PEPPER FOR COLDS IN CHEST

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

Red Pepper Rub is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.

SYNOPSIS
The sailing schooner "Sea Sprite" docks at Frisco after a terrible cruise in the Arctic, and her crew are eager for the delights that the town can give. Brady, the mate of the schooner, allows liquor on the boat, and by the time that Hurricane, the skipper, is ashore, most of his crew are drunk. He leaves Brady on the schooner and walks through the dockside to Mother Ward's where he stays in Frisco. He is welcomed and charged triple the value of his room.

Not waiting to empty his sacks, he paid for two weeks' rent in advance, for old friend or not Mother Ward took no chances, and with his cap on the back of his head, and hands deep in his trouser pockets, he sauntered out to find what Frisco had to give. He was in no hurry. The feel of the roll of bills in his pocket was comforting and the belt that was around his waist reminded him that while it lasted he could have whatever it could buy, and the thought was cheering.

The last two years had been hell indeed, but now that it was over he almost felt that it had been worth it, because of the savor that it gave to his present pleasures. Two years is a long trip for a sealer. Any man other than the Haley type would turn back and admit failure—but Hurricane was not that type. Once he went after anything, he stopped only when he got it. Twice the men had mutinied, because of low rations, because the eternal snow and ice were driving them mad. But he had subdued them with threats, blows, promises—and kept them at it till his hold was filled.

And now, after these two years of torment, he was going to hear laughing voices again—going to listen to people he knew, going to lay his finger on the very pulse of life, and with his hand tight-

He stopped to chat with the little Italian on Clarkson street.

clenched around the money in his pocket, Hurricane felt that the two years had not been in vain.

The bitterness was going. Frisco was going to pay him back, and as he walked along he was smiling broadly. It was wonderful to be back again. He paused for a moment beneath the sign of a saloon, but shook his head. It was too early for any of the old boys to be there now. They would be nearer the docks, and would work up that way as the evening progressed. He was turning to make sure when the swing doors of the saloon parted and a woman, more than three-parts intoxicated, lurched out. A street lamp stood on the corner, and with a determined effort she crossed the pavement and grasped at it. Whether it eluded her, or whether her arm was bad, Hurricane did not know, but she missed the post and subsided into the gutter, where she sat and surveyed her feet that had so flagrantly gone back on her. Hurricane grinned. It was no novelty to him, and where pleasure is almost conspicuous by its absence, the user of synthetic aids is hardly censured. "You're a trifle off, ain't you, ma'am?" he asked, and as the woman smiled up at him, he bent down and lifted her to her feet. "Where are you going to?" he asked. The woman looked him over. She was a typical dock-side type, and Haley and his ilk were her prey, so putting the only possible construction on his question, she replied, "Anywhere you say, kid, but let's have a drink first."

Hurricane shook his head. "Guess I've got a date, but you can have a drink on me, an' you'd better get away from here before the cops see you." The woman knew her trade. He had money now, but when the harpies of the dance-halls were through with him, it would be her turn to take what was left. She took the bill and murmured an indistinct "Good night."

Haley could not be offended, he was friendly to all. To the shuffling Chinks, he waved a wind-browed hand. He stopped to chat with the little Italian who kept the stand on Clarkson Street. Tony had been there since before Hurricane could remember, and Tony knew him. Knew him in the same way that he knew all the sunburnt men who would give a dollar for an orange when they felt that way. He even stopped to pat a mongrel dog that sniffed at his legs as he stood on a corner deciding which way to go. By now Hurricane was back in the streets behind the docks. Dark, dirty streets, ill-lit and untidy, packed with a mob of unwashed habitants gathered from the corners of the earth. It was the water front of Frisco. No different from the dockside in the great ports throughout the world, but with this difference to Haley. Where he could be disgusted by the filth and prostitution of Penrynfields and Wapping, Frisco was his home. Each smell and noise reminded him that he was happy.

From beetling tenements came wheezy tunes, ground out on cheap phonographs. At each street corner the same boys and girls were lounging, talking and giggling softly. Down the streets, close to the shadows of the walls, yellow men moved furtively in and out of their narrow alleys, or sometimes more boldly, as with an ogling female on their arm, they walked the open street that the white sailor might see their conquest. Around the cheaper saloons the blacks, the Malays and Lascars hovered and desired, without daring to pounce.

From dim lit bars came snatches of popular songs, accompanied by the strident music of electrical pianos, and above it all rose the blatant music of a Salvation Army band. It was warm and raw—just night among the docks of San Francisco. Hurricane moved along noticing everything and before he knew it he was outside "The Ship," well known among the bars of the Pacific ports. Here was a place where he would be sure to meet plenty of the old gang, and he was not disappointed.

Old Wooden Leg Cribbins, an ex-seaman himself, who had had an unpleasant encounter with a shark in the South Seas, came from behind the bar and greeted him.

Evil Is Done Easily

What delight is there in a future life if it is impossible to imagine it to one's self? The description of a struggle between good and evil in a life which is committing, or has just committed, an evil action always seems to be unnatural. Evil is done easily and unconsciously, and only much later does the man become horrified and amazed at what he has done.—Tolstoy.

DAIRY FACTS

PREPARING DAIRY FOR COLD WINTER

"The first thing to do in preparing for winter," says Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division of the University of Minnesota, "is to go over your feed situation. If you have silage on hand and legume hay in the barn it will be easy to fix up a suitable grain mixture. If you have corn and oats or barley you will not need to patronize the feed store unless you have some concentrate high in protein is needed to balance the grain ration, and the amount needed for the winter should be purchased. It never pays to half feed live stock of any kind.

"Do not wait too long in the fall before beginning to house the cows at night and even during the day whenever the weather is bad. I believe that cows suffer more from cold on the average in November than during any other month. The owner likes to keep them out as long as possible to save labor and possibly in some states with the idea of saving feed. A cow compelled to stand outdoors in a cold raw wind or a cold rain is in no condition to make a profit. She will not hold up in milk like in May or June because she is uncomfortable.

"Housing fattening animals and dairy cows is quite a different proposition. The fat animal is well protected from the cold and does not mind it. The cow in milk is not protected by a layer of fat. She is giving off fat in place of putting it on. A barbed-wire fence is mighty poor shelter for a dairy cow either day or night during the winter."

Avoid Breeding Heifer Before Two Years Old

Experienced dairymen who have been breeding dairy cattle for some time appreciate the damage that is done to heifers if they are bred too young. Premature breeding usually results in undersized animals which have a reduced capacity for milk production. Continued breeding at an early age tends to weaken the vitality and vigor of the herd.

The larger breeds of dairy cattle, like the larger breeds of chickens, require more time to mature than the smaller breeds. This means that Holsteins must be allowed more time to grow than Jerseys. Even the smaller breeds should not be allowed to produce calves before they are two years old if they are to give the best results.

It is generally agreed that Holsteins should be from nineteen to twenty-one months old when bred; Ayrshires should be from eighteen to twenty months; Guernseys from seventeen to nineteen months, and Jerseys from fifteen to seventeen months. This means that the heifers must not be allowed to run with the herd bull, for they will often come in heat many months before this age is reached.

Clean Stables Greatest Factor Against Disease

The greatest factor in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis is declared to be proper cleanliness of dairy barns. It is significant that one of the greatest troubles experienced in British Columbia during the testing for the establishment of a T. B. free area was to get farmers to properly clean up.

"Fortunately," says the Dairy Farmer, "our friend the sun has prodigious curative powers, and will help to kill off the germs of tuberculosis wherever he gets a chance to do so."

The farmers who are advocating open-air conditions for dairy cows have strong supporters in their claim that it is often the expensive coddled animal which develops T. B. and that the disease is comparatively unknown among cattle which run out practically all the time.

To properly keep clean a cow barn is so difficult that it is rarely done, but the development of disease may be prevented by allowing the animals to exercise in the open rather than by coddling them in tight barns which, in fact, have been proved to be among the worst factors in the spread of T. B. among cows.

Ventilating Barn

When building a new barn or remodeling an old one, many factors and problems should be given the very closest consideration. The location of the barn with reference to drainage and its relation to other buildings cannot be given too much attention. The internal arrangement of the barn and the fixtures that are to be used should be designed to save labor. An abundance of light should be provided, because sunlight is a very important factor.

Watch Young Calf

Too often dry pastures, flies and especially insufficient grain and water cause scrawny-looking calves that never develop into average-size cows. The calf should be eating some grain from the time it is three weeks old and at weaning time this should be slightly increased, especially if the pasture is short. If no pasture is available a little alfalfa hay will help materially. With good pasture, grain is not necessary more than two weeks after weaning.
